Editor's note...

elcome to the April edition of your Gazette! It's one of my favourite months - April and September generally bring us some glorious weather whilst we're still quite quiet as far as tourisim goes leaving lots of beautiful, open space for us locals to enjoy before the hoards arrive!

We've another packed edition for you this month, including some exciting news about a new sporting venue to open soon in Purbeck - yes, the 'Olympic Legacy' is finally coming to South Dorset!

I've taken the bull by the horns and have tried out dermal fillers on your behalf this month, so check out our Health and Beauty section to see what was involved, and what, if any, difference was made!

We were sorry to hear about the loss of Donato Forte recently - a truly inspirational man indeed. Local sculpturist, Carlotta Barrow, has penned a wonderful obituary, which you'll find on page 56.

Our community also lost the wonderful and irreplaceable Pete Lacey, from Swanage Hospital MIU, in March this year. Our thoughts are very much with Pete's family, and with the hospital staff who we know will miss him enormously. Big boots to fill.

We also have news from Monkey World, local groups and organisations, the line-up of our most recently-aknowledged Purbeck volunteers and much, much more!

FREE CAR STICKERS THIS MONTH! Collect from our office in Commercial Road, Swanage on Tues or Thurs!

Charity Car Day

Dear Editor,

Through our own local paper, may I just remind folk that the last Sunday in April, Sunday 26th April, is the Swanage Charity Day and Classic Car Display from I I am till 4pm, held in the Victoria Avenue Car Park, Swanage. There will be a programme including a grand draw ticket (very nice prizes!) at only £1.

There are about one hundred cars coming in from all over Dorset, post-veteran and classic, so come along and judge the 'best car on show' (there is a tear off slip on your programme) and a shield will be presented for 'best car' at about 3.30pm.

It is not too late to book a charity stall, a craft stall, a Trade Stand or a 'General Public' Stand at Wilcox & Cook in Commercial Lane, Swanage, or ring me (number below), and you keep all the profit for your own charity. Please bring your own table etc. and a gazebo if you have one and arrive on site 8am-9am as the old veteran cars will be coming along about 10am.

One car is allowed per stall and any others can be parked in the public car park space at a special rate. Any stalls will be welcome and any veteran or classic cars can also book in. (Cheques to be made out please to the J. Lazenbury Charity a/c). Each car will receive a plaque as a memory of this day, providing they have paid their registration fee.(only £5 in advance or £7 on the day).

I am expecting about one hundred cars and usually about one thousand people come along to watch, so selling is always brisk!

Hot food will be sold throughout the day, with plenty of interesting stalls, and an interesting special coffee stand this year.

Last year approximately £1500-2000 was given to all the various charities. Jenny Lazenbury, Organiser, 01929-288092

50 Shades Or 50 Grades

Dear Editor,

My companion, Mrs. Trellis, and I are planning one of our increasingly infrequent visits to the Isle of Purbeck.

It will coincide with a screening, at the Rex Cinema in Wareham, of '50 Shades of Grey'. I was greatly looking forward to booking this. However, Mrs. T. has declared the film 'disgusting', having already seen it. An opinion that she still holds after two further viewings.

She is a lady that is difficult to 'pin, or indeed, tie down', and my suggestion that maybe I 'could take her blindfolded', was met with a raised fist!

My disappointment is tempered, however, by a rumour that later in the year there may be a film screening, of more local interest, that also involves pumping activities.

An adaptation of the 'exploratory' Report into 'Fracking at Kimmeridge'. '50 Grades of Shale'.

Can you confirm?

Yours, Eric Pode, Burkiss Way, Croydon

Welcome To Caring Britain

Dear Editor.

Regarding the plight of Judi Taylor's attempt to rent a property to live in and the negative response from the landord/s (letters, March edition)...

Many young folk now cannot afford to buy and will probably be renting all their lives. Does that mean they will all get kicked out of their properties when they are 65 years old too?

Will they, too, be forced to sell the Big Issue in the cold and rain far away from Boots the chemist because some people are mean and mercenary? Welcome to caring Britain eh???

Sue, by email.

New Communicare Card

Dear Editor,

COMMUNICARE

Through your wonderful Gazette, I would like to point out to the people of Swanage that we have now had printed an up-to-date card, this time in BLUE.

Thanks to having two more Link people volunteer, we are able to offer our full service to you once again, of shopping, helping with wheelchairs, form filling and writing letters, visiting or reading to the people on their own, sitting in to relieve the carer, visiting the bereaved, car transport to hospitals at 40p a mile (given to the driver).

Apart from the driving, all the other jobs are performed on a free of charge basis.

Look on the card and just phone any of those Swanage numbers for help. If you receive no reply from the 1st number, then please try any of the others. Just remember these are busy people like yourselves, and try again in a different part of the day. It's better not to rely on messages, as they could be away for the week-end. Whatever your problem, Communicare cares and we offer practical help entirely on a voluntary basis.

Should you want a repeat job done, please go back to the Link Person, and arrange it with them, for the same person to take you to, say, hospital. They will do this for you, and will be able to record your request, making sure that all our clients are covered under our insurance. Should a client 'do-it-yourself' you run the risk of the job not being noted down, and both you and your Helper could be at risk. So please help us to help you, and keep you safe.

For those of you who like to use the internet, we have got ourselves modernized, and have got on the web: www.swanageforyou.co.uk . We have a good webmaster who is keeping the facts up-to-date, and should you be coming to live in Swanage for the very first time, you will be able to read all about us and our services. Most of us belong to the Churches Together in Swanage and District.

Now, go out and pick up a card in any of the Swanage Churches, the Health Centre, Corbens, Goadsby, or our local hospital. Please destroy your old pink card.

We now have six landlines and one mobile phone number for you to ring, and we aim to give neighbourly help to anyone in need.

Should anyone feel that they are in a position to put something back in the community, please ring the Director (tel. no. below). We always need car drivers to take people for cancer treatment, hospital visiting, visiting the lonely, just to name but a few.

If you can help, please let us know - once a week - once a month - whatever! We will be overjoyed - a trouble shared is a trouble halved.

Is Less Really More?

Dear Nico,

I'm deliberately keeping this note as short as possible because I'd like to complain about the many overlong letters and items in the Gazette.

Surely more succinct items would be more effective and accessible.

Come on guys - less is more!

Yours concisely,

Martin Hobdell, Swanage.

Cycleway - Debate Goes On

Dear Editor,

I have been cycling since I was five years old and have always got a lot of pleasure out of it.

But when riding on the roads I always felt unsafe and intimidated by the cars and lorries as they queued up behind me, so it was with great relief that I saw that the Dorset County Council at a cost of £800,000 + have built a cycle pathway from Wareham to Bakers Arms roundabout (A351) so that cyclists would be safer and the traffic wouldn't be held up.

To my surprise there seem to be a lot of cyclists who don't agree with me, for when I travel by bus or car up and down the A35I between Wareham and the Bakers Arms roundabout there are still cyclists riding on the road and not using the cycle way! - causing the traffic to back up and causing me to have to make very dangerous passing manoeuvres.

It seems then that either the Dorset County Council has wasted £800,000 or the cyclists are immune to the dangers of the traffic.

Another thought has occured to me is if a cyclist is involved in a accident on that stretch of road, what would the insurance companies say about it?

Would they favour the motorist as the cyclist could have been riding in a safer place?

Could You Be A Friend?

Dear Nico,

The Committee of the Friends of Swanage Hospital has a couple of vacancies and we wondered if any of your readers would like to join us?

We would love to hear from anyone who is interested in the work of the hospital and could spare a few hours four or five times a year for our Tuesday evening meetings and would be willing to help at our various fund-raising events.

I feel a great sense of privilege helping to support our wonderful hospital and its staff and if you would like to hear more about being part of the Friends' team then please leave you contact details at the hospital and I will be in touch.

Yours sincerely, Jan Turnbull, Chair, Friends of Swanage Hospital

Let There Be Light

Dear Editor.

We note that the spate of tree-felling in Purbeck continues unabated ... let there be light etc. That's what the moderns wish with their awakened consciousness.

Alas for the vanishing nuances of light and shade, the speckled dust.

The neo-Sandbanks architecture makes its presence felt with an increasing vigour.

Who can, or indeed wishes to withstand these bright worlds encased in glass? The imprisoned splendour?

Yours sincerely, David Barsley, Swanage.

Moonwalk For Vikki

Dear Nico and Team,

We are doing the London Moonwalk, 26 miles of power walking overnight through London, Saturday 16th May in memory of our dear friend Vikki Thornhill (pictured, left) who died of breast cancer after her second recurrence of this horrible disease at the end of July 2014, aged only 44.

Vikki grew up in Swanage, but like many she left for work, then married, but returned in her 40s with her three children, having always missed the hills, the sea, and the pace of life here. Once back she really threw herself into Swanage life.

She learned to sail at Swanage Sailing Club, in fact when she knew she was dying she arranged for a trophy to be awarded in her memory to the best novice sailor. She was a very active member of Swanage Musical Theatre company, once joining the cast of "Stepping Out" at the last minute when one of the principals was unable to appear - Vikki learned a very complicated tap-dancing routine in no time, and performed it perfectly to save the day.

Parents and children connected to St Mark's school will remember Vikki helping in Mrs Parish's class: Vikki was actually a qualified teacher, but worked as a classroom assistant while waiting for a post to come up, luckily for the St Mark's as she was so brilliant with young children.

Vikki and her family did several sponsored events to raise money for Cancer Research, and had she been alive we are sure she would have been coming with us to do this Moonwalk. If anybody would like to sponsor us in Vikki's memory, or if you or your family have been affected by cancer you can sign one of our forms at Burt's Bits or Sue's Cards in Swanage. Many thanks, Jacqui Wilson and Jane Linger (pictured below)

New Home For Old Club

Dear Gazette,

At a meeting of a model railway club about twenty miles away the secretary gave a talk. He explained how the club had started fifteen years ago with about six members, meeting in someone's house and how it had developed into a thriving club with eighty members and meetings twice a week.

On the way back to Swanage my passenger reminded me that I had started a model railway club in Swanage fifteen years ago with six people meeting in my flat and I have still only got six members.

That may be true, but thanks to Mike Green we have now got a permanent site for our club layouts on the first floor of the stables at Godlingston Manor. Over the past few months he has installed heating, lighting, a new floor, carpets and roof insulation.

He has also built the baseboards and track for a 1/43 scale model of the Swanage Railway. This is over 100 feet long and whether it is the largest layout in the country is hotly disputed. Other members are building sections. Hugh built Wareham Station, Peter is building the narrow gauge railway at Norden, Martyn is building Corfe Castle Station and I am building Corfe Viaduct and Harmans Cross Station.

I am also pleased to find a permanent home there for my 4' \times 3' Hornby-Dublo Blue Pool layout, my I/I48 scale freelance layout and my I/76 scale Corfe Viaduct layout.

Yours sincerely, Robin Brasher, Swanage

Accreditation For Museum

Dear Nico,

The Swanage Museum Committee would like to publicly thank all those volunteer museum members and others in the wider community who have toiled over the preceding months to help us achieve Full Accreditation from the Arts Council.

Well done and thank you all.

East Home Flower Festival

Dear Nico,

It's that time of year again and I am in the process of arranging the annual East Holme Flower Festival and Street Fair.

We hope that your readers will join us on Monday 4th May 2015 in the village of East Holme for our annual Street Fair and Flower Festival.

There will be the ever popular duck racing, a raffle, tombola, cake stall, book stall, produce stall, plant stall, children's games Corfe Castle Donkeys, cream teas and much, much more. This year sees the 150th anniversary since the completion of St John's The Evangelist and we will be decorating the inside of the church as usual and all would be welcome. Gates open at 2.00pm and we look forward to seeing you there.

Yours, Joy Allan

Of Plans, Police And Public Policies

David Hollister writes...

In this column in the February Gazette, I wrote "the Dorset Waste Partnership' is a joke. Which idiot dreamed up the idea of four household collections…" Well, now we know his name. The Director, Steve Burdis, has been suspended while the County Council carries out an urgent investigation. It seems that the DWP allegedly hired vehicles without going through the proper tendering process; it is also alleged that some of these vehicles were not adequately insured.

The overspend last year was a massive £2.8m, in a service which was set up to save the County Council at least £1.3m a year, which for the first three years it did. But, Steve, don't worry; our inept County Council will probably keep you on and in time we will see you "recycled" as Chief Executive.

Some disagreement in Wareham as regards parking on the Quay; one faction feels that it should be stopped, another faction that it should be retained. Well, this particular faction and its wife enjoy parking for half an hour or so on the quay, getting out of the car and sitting on the conveniently-provided seats and watching the conveniently-provided ducks and swans sailing in the river. If we couldn't park there we wouldn't stay. It's a pleasant, inexpensive and convenient way of enjoying Wareham's splendid river scene. And yes, occasionally we wander up South Street and into those shops which decide to remain open on Sunday. We all win. It works. Don't fix it.

My first reaction when I learned that Wareham Police Station's front office was to be closed was negative, at yet another facility being withdrawn from Purbeck (Purbeck? Where's Purbeck?). But yes, the closure does make sense in the light of the infrequent use of the Police Station. Imagine if you had a shop, paid rent and rates and services and staff – and only two people a day ever came in. You'd soon close it – or go broke.

Chief Constable Debbie Simpson assures us that neighbourhood policing will continue to be based in Wareham, that officers will continue to work in each area, and - more importantly – that the closure will save £300,000 which will pay for six front line Police officers. That's excellent news, Debbie, that seems to me like two more in Swanage, two in Wareham, and two in Purbeck's villages. When do they start? Or was this just a specious comparison and the saving – which could pay for six front-line police officers - will just get integrated with all the rest of the money that we pay hoping for a police force but which actually gets us call centre staff on 101 if they can be bothered to answer.

What we need is for Amazon to take over our police force. Log in, make your request for a police officer, and one is delivered the next day all nicely wrapped in cardboard. Probably quicker than 101.......

And what of Langton Matravers this month? Their own website states "It was reported at the February 2015 Parish Council meeting by Chris McDermott, Senior Housing Manager at the PDC that there are 33 households, with a Langton connection, waiting on Purbeck's Housing register The stated property requirements for the 33 on the register are 18x1 bedroom, 14x2 bedroom and 1x4 bedroom."

Let's hope that the very real flooding issues which resulted in the Spyway

Orchard plans being turned down, can be sorted out to everyone's satisfaction. Because it seems to me that the developer is offering to meet at least half of Langton's needs, at a stroke. If not there – then where? And if not now – then when?

But more dangerous to Langton Matravers – and indeed to all of us – is the outline proposal which seems to suggest that PDC hope to make an area to the north of the village, down as far as the A351, a 'settlement extension site' with TWO HUNDRED HOUSES ON IT. "50% affordable housing" has been mentioned but in view of the recent change of policy, don't count your chickens.

Maybe PDC needs to do a little more homework on exactly who's the legal owner of exactly which bits of field and woodland that are encompassed in this area, on whether the 'settlement extension' actually abuts the village itself, on the effect of even more traffic on the village, and on the Corfe Castle 'Bottleneck'. And drainage. And wildlife. And maybe extend the 'consultation period' and advertise it more widely. But perhaps it's public ignorance that they're counting on? This has to be a non-starter, so let's help make it one. And it's too big to go through 'on the nod'.

Anyway, unless you've been living in a cave, you'll be aware that a very important set of local elections is coming up. All Town and District Councillors come up for re-election this year, so it's your chance to replace the less-efficient ones with new councillors. A real good clear-out! But how do you know who to vote for – assuming that you're intelligent enough to ignore badges and realise that there's no place for party politics in local government?

I had an idea – which I hoped might be repeated in each parish – to hire a venue, find a competent and impartial chairman, and to hold a meeting one evening, inviting all parish candidates to come along and speak for five minutes on why they should be elected, what they hope to achieve in the next four years, and how they propose to keep in full contact with their electors. And then face questions from the floor.

This would have applied not only to independents, but to every candidate regardless of which 'party' they purport to represent, a non-political, non-sectarian event, not intended to turn into a mud-slinging contest about the rights and wrongs of the past. What we should be looking at is the future.

Regrettably, however, it is clear that in some parishes, the significant number of potential candidates would rule out such a meeting because every single candidate should be given equal opportunity to make his or her point and there just aren't that number of hours in an evening!

When so many are gathered together all speech becomes a debate without end. So in view of the fact that the general public are 'turned off' by party badges, how are we the electors to find out what each individual candidate stands for and how that candidate will best suit our needs?

The candidates are going to have to resort to the old-fashioned methods – leaflet distribution and meeting their electors on the doorstep. And at the end of the day, to make good on their promises and to stand or fall by their actions as Councillors for the next four years.

Local Crufts Win!

HUGE congratulations to Margaret Diffey of Swanage for winning 'Best of Breed' at Crufts 2015 with her Shih Tzu, Jemma.

Sadly, Margaret suffered a fall just prior to Crufts, which meant her friend, Gwynne Goodwin, (from Oxford) stepped in to show Jemma in the ring on the day.

The picture above shows Gwynne with Jemma (a Shih Tzu), who was the Best of Breed winner on Sunday 8th March, the fourth day of Crufts 2015, at the NEC Birmingham.

Crufts is the world's largest dog show and was established in 1891 by Charles Cruft. This year saw more than 22,000 healthy, happy dogs enjoying competing for the coveted 'Best in Show' title. Crufts 2015 ran from the 5th to the 8th March 2015 at the NEC, Birmingham.

Well done Margaret, Gwynne and Jemma!

The Purbeck Workshop

A new craft centre and shop in Wool village

by volunteer Chris Smith

here is an exciting new project in Wool Village: a workshop specifically designed for cancer patients, their families and carers. Also a craft shop selling a wide variety of handmade gifts and cards, including some from workshop sessions. We are near the fish and chip shop and Bijou Café in Wool.

Paul Feeney had the idea when he tried to find such a resource in the area. A village resident, Paul found the premises, set up a charitable trust and began recruiting volunteers and supporters before he died in November 2014.

The Workshop opened its doors a week later on 30 November 2014 according to his wishes. Paul's wife Sinead Feeney, with support from friends and family, now runs the Workshop, which aims to provide a safe, caring environment with opportunities to try out various crafts and activities.

It is hoped that this will help people to find a distraction from cancer and its treatment, which affects so many families. Courses and activities are free of charge and there are regular sessions during the week on:

Mondays 1030 - 1230: Flower-arranging Tuesdays 1330 - 1530: Handmade gifts Wednesdays 1030 - 1230: Glass up-cycling Thursdays 1030 - 1230: Woodworking

Fridays 1015 - 1215: Watercolours or drawing as well as monthly walks and specialist courses such as astronomy, photography and button-making.

All visitors will be welcome to the Workshop during sessions to browse the many items for sale.

We will also be taking part in Purbeck Art Week where our work and that of local artists will be on display from Saturday 23 May to Sunday 7 June.

We look forward to seeing you, please tell your friends about us and find out more by visiting our website at www.purbeckworkshop.org or telephoning us on 0775 777 6907.

Passport Win For P.L.F.

embers of the Purbeck Liberation Front threw their pitchforks in the air whilst whooping with joy on March 23rd as Dorset County Council announced that plans for the introduction of passports for Purbeck residents had finally been passed.

From September 1st 2015, everyone resident in Purbeck will have to be registered with the Passport Commission at Dorset County Council, and all Purbeckian passports will have to be shown at the control booth to be erected at Wareham Bridge before leaving the isle. All traffic will be diverted from the Isle of Purbeck (Swanage - East Lulworth) to leave via Wareham bridge from 1st September 2015.

Having fought for over a decade to be recognised as a separate state, with all the rights and responsibilities that entails, a P.L.F. spokesperson said: "This is something we have fought for with everything we have for generations. My grandfather and my aunt (who were a couple) would be downing the Old Rosie in celebration, if they were still alive. Since the formal announcement, our chaps have been out celebrating, doing our bit for local businesses by ensuring the coffers of the public houses are overflowing."

A P.L.F.committee has been formed, with many important issues to be decided over the coming months. Decisions already voted upon and passed include: special 'gold' passports to be issued to those who can prove their Purbeckian line goes back at least three generations, a toll fee for nonpassport holders wishing to access the isle (tourists, etc - it is hoped by local businesses that goods vehicles will be allowed through toll-free), an exclusion zone in our waters to keep our fish stocks for our own fishermen and the abolishment of the right to own more than one home. It has been decided to keep the pound as currancy, for now.

You will receive your passport form from DCC over the next couple of months, which you must return, along with the compulsory fee of £97. Non-compliance will result in seriously painful pitchfork-induced injuries.

Out Of The Blue

Dorset Police

Purbeck Section has experienced some significant changes in the last month:

Firstly, Inspector Gaffney has left Purbeck for pastures new, CID, and Inspector Ernie Henley has arrived to take her place.

Inspector Henley writes: "I have been a police officer for 25 years, serving in both Dorset and London. I have specialised in Traffic, Public Order and Neighbourhood policing. It is an honour and privilege being posted to the Neighbourhood Inspector for Purbeck, as I know what a great place it is to live, work and visit. I am excited in being able to contribute towards our policing commitment in Purbeck. Working alongside my colleagues and partners we will continue to reduce crime and anti-social behaviour, to bring offenders to justice and to protect the public from harm.

"Dorset Police faces significant challenges in light of budgetary constraints, which has seen substantial changes to our infrastructure and administrative procedures. Notwithstanding, our aim continues to be in delivering a professional service that serves and safeguards us all, especially the most vulnerable in our communities. Our improvements in tackling domestic abuse, violent crime and serious road collisions, as well as our bespoke 101 contact management process, is evidence of our ongoing commitment to make Dorset safer and feel safer.

"I hope to serve the people of Purbeck with distinction and will ensure focus towards local policing needs. I look forward to continuing the excellent links Dorset Police has with its communities, partners and stakeholders. Thank you."

Secondly, Wareham Enquiry office closed its doors to the public on Saturday 28th February. It is one of six Enquiry Offices across the force area that is closing as a result of further government funding cuts. This is not a decision that the Police and Crime Commissioner or the Chief Constable wanted to make – but pressures out of their direct control forced this action.

This link will take you to those Enquiry Offices that remain open with their times as well as information on what provisions are in place for some

enquiries: http://www.dorset.police.uk/default.aspx?page=8247

PLEASE BE ASSURED that the policing provision for Purbeck does not and will not change. Wareham Police Station will continue to be staffed 24/7 by Officers and will continue to serve the residents and visitors of Purbeck.

It with great sadness that Wareham Police Station bade goodbye to two of its longest serving personnel, Mrs Sue Eldson and Mrs Shelia Brown – who were Station Desk Officers based in the Enquiry Office. All in Purbeck wish them well in their retirement and wish Inspectors Gaffney and Henley good luck in their new roles.

Finally – Dorset continues to see elderly people being targeted by fraudsters telephoning victims and persuading them to withdraw large sums of money and hand it over to strangers for "safe keeping".

We cannot stress enough – DO NOT HAND YOUR MONEY OVER TO ANY STRANGER no matter how persuasive their argument. Put the phone down and contact Police from a separate phone. We ask that if you know of an elderly, vulnerable person – please ensure this message gets to them.

To contact Dorset Police please call our police enquiry centre by dialling 101. Always dial 999 in an emergency when there is a risk of harm or a crime is in progress. Alternatively, call the free and anonymous Crimestoppers line on 0800 555 111 (mobile phone tariffs may apply). Remember if you See Anything Suspicious (SAS) call 999. For the latest information on what your local police are doing follow our social media, Twitter - @PurbeckPolice and Facebook – facebook.com/ Purbeck-Police, we really value your support and comments.

YOUR Views Sought

Comments sought on Purbeck conservation area reviews

Residents in some parts of Purbeck are being asked to comment on reviews of their conservation areas. Purbeck District Council recently completed the reviews of conservation areas in West Lulworth, East Lulworth, Coombe Keynes, East Holme and Moreton. This work forms part of an ongoing review of all the district's conservation areas.

The reviews have resulted in the production of documents (called Character Appraisals) which will assist with helping to preserve and enhance the special architectural or historic character or appearance of each conservation area. The reviews also include proposals for boundary revisions. Details of the appraisals and boundary revisions are being sent to all properties in the relevant areas, and the Character Appraisal and boundary revision proposals will be available for all to view online at www. dorsetforyou.com/conservationareas/purbeck Residents have until 10 April 2015 to make comments.

Conservation Areas are designated to cover the most historically and architecturally important and interesting parts of towns and villages. Various factors contribute to the special character of a conservation area.

These include: the quality of the buildings; the historic layout of roads, paths and boundaries; boundary treatments and patterns of enclosure; characteristic building and paving materials; uses and associations; the quality of the public realm and the contribution made by trees and green spaces. A strong "sense of place" is often associated with Conservation Areas.

All comments should be made in writing to the Design and Conservation Officer at Purbeck District Council, Westport House, Worgret Road, Wareham BH20 4PP or by email: conservation@purbeck-dc.gov.uk

If a resident lives in one of the conservation areas and they haven't seen a leaflet, they should telephone Design and Conservation Officer, Benjamin Webb on 01929 557388.

Purbeck Lottery

Purbeck Projects Are Lottery Winners

ew figures reveal that over £117,000 of National Lottery funding was invested in Purbeck projects last year alone. Across Purbeck grants were awarded last year benefiting local arts and heritage projects, alongside community groups helping those most in need.

Grants were awarded to a range of projects in 2014, including:

£9,400 to Wareham Town Council to run a range of events and activities to mark Wareham's role in the First World War

£10,000 to Diverse City London, a community organisation in Swanage. The group will use the funding for a small number of disabled and non-disabled young people to go on an arts-based residential training course

£68,100 to Jurassic Coast Trust for its 'Growing the Jurassic Coast Community' project. The project plans to recruit and train 250 volunteers and increase community engagement.

These projects, or any organisation that has ever received Lottery funding, has the possibility of gaining national recognition through entering the National Lottery Awards 2015.

John Barrowman, presenter of last year's National Lottery Awards show, said: "Every National Lottery player should feel proud of the incredible difference they are making to the local community. They raise an astonishing £33 million every week for a huge variety of life-changing projects. The National Lottery Awards offer a chance to celebrate the fantastic work of Lottery-funded projects. If you know of a great project that deserves to shine, then please nominate them for an Award."

The National Lottery Awards have seven categories to reflect the range of areas that the Lottery funds - Sport, Heritage, Arts, Environment, Health, Education and Voluntary/Charity.

The winners of The National Lottery Awards will receive a $\pounds 2,000$ cash prize and national recognition at a star-studded ceremony broadcast on BBC One later this year.

Farewell Pete

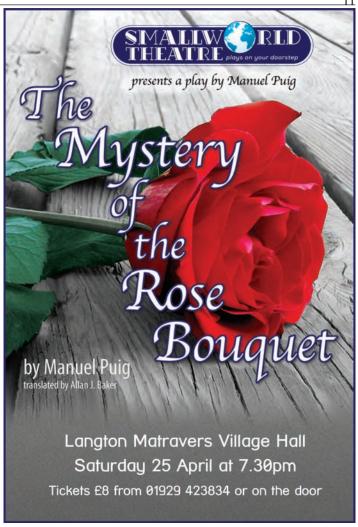

wanage Hospital staff, colleagues and I would like to pay tribute to Pete Lacey who worked in MIU from 19th June 2003 (pictured below - in 'Swanella', Swanage Hospital's recent production at The Mowlem Theatre, and bottom, 'treating' a patient in MIU at Swanage!!).

Pete died on 3rd March 2015. He was an extremely experienced and valued member of the Swanage team and our thoughts and prayers are with his family at this time. He will be sadly missed. Matron Donna

Pete was an integral part of my after-care when I was discharged from Poole hospital on several occasions, so on behalf of all the individuals and families who have been also been cared for by Pete, I would like to offer our most sincere sympathies to Pete's family. He will be dearly missed by so many of us in the community. Nico Johnson, Editor.

Dorset Waste Partnership Mismanagement Woe

Urgent improvements are required for Dorset Waste Partnership after report highlights failures. Vehicles hired without a proper tendering process and alleged issues with vehicle insurance are amongst the report's findings....

embers of seven Dorset councils met on Wednesday II March to discuss an urgent improvement plan for the Dorset Waste Partnership (DWP).

The DWP Joint Committee, which oversees the partnership, considered a report outlining the findings of three separate reviews into the DWP's budget management, decision-making and use of hire vehicles. They will be asked to approve an action plan to implement all their recommendations.

Councillors also received a report by the Monitoring Officer of Dorset County Council, the partnership's host authority, highlighting that the DWP hired vehicles to the value of £1.5m without a proper tendering process. In addition, the monitoring officer report identifies issues in relation to DWP vehicle insurance.

On behalf of the partners, the county council has launched a formal, independently-led investigation into the issues raised.

The reviews were called for late last year after the DWP reported an overspend of £2.8m, including more than £1m for hire vehicles, associated with the roll-out of improved recycling services. They are:

- an internal audit of vehicle hire by the South West Audit Partnership;
- an efficiency review by Local Partnerships (jointly owned by the Treasury and Local Government Association);
- and a fundamental review of the DWP by consultants WYG, commissioned by the chief executives of partner councils.

The Director of the DWP has been suspended temporarily while the county council carries out its formal procedures in such circumstances. This is done without prejudging the outcome of these procedures.

Temporary leadership will be provided by Mike Harries, the county council's Director for Environment and Economy and Chair of the DWP Management Board, and Steve Mackenzie, Chief Executive of Purbeck District Council.

WYG, who authored one of the reviews, has been appointed to provide temporary support to the DWP management team, oversee delivery of the improvement plan and restore confidence while ensuring vital services continue to be provided.

The DWP is formed of and funded by seven Dorset councils on a costsharing basis and is hosted by the county council, which employs its staff and provides its support services.

The councils formed the partnership in 2011 to join up waste services across Dorset. It has met or exceeded most of its key aims, including:

- increasing recycling to more than 60% (currently above 62% in districts using the new service and 59% countywide)
- reducing landfill waste (this has halved from 40% to 20% since 2011);
- achieving customer satisfaction of 80% (89% of 5,000 residents surveyed in February 2014 said they were happy with the new service)
- and saving at least £1.3m a year (this was achieved in the first three years but not this year. Financial projections show that the councils are still better off in the partnership than if they had continued to deliver waste services on their own).

However, late last year saw problems with the roll-out of the service for a number of households in Weymouth and Portland, the reported overspend and an increase in next year's budget by £2.9m to £32.5m.

Calling All Potential Skydivers!

fter Gazette Editor, Nico Johnson, reported on her charity skydive in 2014 (pictured), many of you have expressed a desire to undertake a jump of your own - either for a chosen charity, or just for the sheer fun of it.

The idea of filling a plane with Purbeckians is appealing, and as we have been contacted by several of you who are interested in jumping together, we're going to give you details of what you need to do and who you need to contact to get started!

The suggested time for an organised 'Purbeckian Jump' is the end of May/beginning of June (give the air a chance to warm-up!). The airfield is about an hour's journey away, at Old Sarum in Salisbury. You have two choices when it comes to paying for your jump - you can either raise sponsorship (usually a minimum of around £400 is required for most charities) and your jump fee is taken from your sponsorship money, or you can pay yourself. A tandem skydive will cost £249 if you're just paying to jump rather than raising money for charity.

If you're jumping for charity, then you need to choose your charity and check to see if they accept funds from charity skydives. The easy way to do this is to visit www.goskydive.com where a list of charities you can jump for is available. Once you've chosen your charity, then you need to set up a 'Justgiving' account online (www.justgiving.com) to enable you to raise your sponsorship money. You can collect money 'by hand', but will have to ensure that your payment to Goskydive is made on the day. Do not book your skydive date yet as we will need to attempt to get as many of you together in the plane, so we'll fix the date next month.

If you're up for it, then drop us an email before April 9th to confirm you'll take part, together with a link to your JustGiving page. We'll then contact everyone in a couple of weeks and suggest jump dates, which we will then book (with a majority agreement on the date chosen). Those collecting for charity will have their JustGiving links publicised in the May edition of the Purbeck Gazette, together with the jump date.

An Igloo In Langton

he Year 2 class at St George's Primary School, Langton have had a great deal of fun building an igloo out of plastic milk cartons last term as part of their 'lce' topic.

They started building the igloo just before Christmas and were thrilled with the support of the local community who have kindly donated over 400 cartons to enable them to build their igloo. Parents, teachers, villagers and even the local police stopped by the school to deliver bags of clean 4 pint cartons for the children's project.

The igloo, although a little fragile, can accommodate 5 children comfortably. One of the Year 2 pupils said 'lt's great, we can pretend we are in the Arctic!'

The igloo was constructed in a corner of the Year 2 classroom but has actually been a fantastic experience for all of the children in the school. Many children from other year groups have been popping into the year 2 classroom to watch the igloo come to life over the past few weeks and are amazed with the result.

Teacher Miss Emma Paterson said: 'We are all so pleased with the result, and especially grateful to our local community for donating the cartons for our project. It's certainly made the topic much more visual for the children and we've also been able to cover important issues such as recycling within it.'

Soon the igloo will be dismantled as the topic has reached its conclusion, but the children are very much aware of the importance of recycling the cartons and the tops. The plastic cartons will be recycled at the Household Waste Depot in Swanage and the tops will be equally distributed between two of the parents who collect them for the Julia's House and Whizz Kidz charities.

The children's next topic is 'Animals' and they are eagerly awaiting what exciting things their teacher has planned for them to do next!

New Parking Rules

Government Delivers on Parking Promises to Help Local Shops.

Parking measures that put common sense back in the driving seat have been given the green light by Local Government and Communities Secretary Eric Pickles and Transport Secretary Patrick McLoughlin.

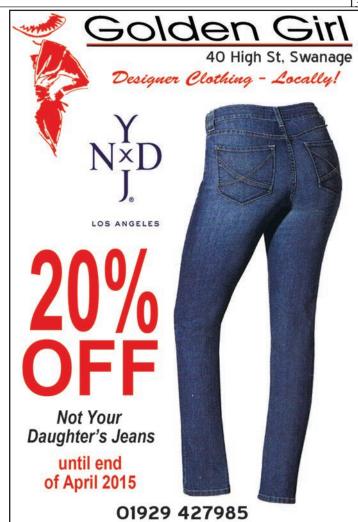

Under new laws designed to help local shops, drivers will get a 10 minute grace period when they park in a paid or free parking space - so they will no longer be fined for being just a few minutes late getting back to their vehicle.

The use of CCTV 'spy cars' has also been banned in the majority of circumstances, ending the tyranny of automated fines landing on doorsteps and being issued in industrial volumes.

The measures aim to stop over-zealous parking enforcement, which often forces people to shop in out-of-town centres or online and were approved in the last reading of parking reforms in the Deregulation Bill.

Councils were also asked to volunteer to trial a new pilot that allows motorists challenging a parking ticket to benefit from a twenty five per cent discount on their fine if they lose their appeal.

Currently drivers are only offered a discount on early payment before challenging a ticket.

My War-time Memories. By Brian Guy

Strangers.

Fats Waller to the sound of Shells! Winter in Holland.

he state of the great flat wet lands of Holland in the depth of winter prevented any large scale operations taking place, during this time the war went into a waiting period throughout the three months of deep winter.

The war continued with a great deal of hate being exchanged, but only small operations were possible. Shell and mortar fire with plenty of small arms fire, and with the ever present danger of mines, made sure that there would be plenty of casualties for the field dressing stations. This was one of the few times when we were forced to live above ground, foxholes were now useless, they quickly filled with water. Somewhere to harbour away from the worst effects of the bitter Dutch winter now became essential. Our officers had managed to find a former Dutch youth SS training camp and managed to secure it for our company.

A collection of wooden huts, a bit battered and damaged, but provided a roof over our heads, dry, and a base from which we could sally forth into our winter operations. We managed to get some sacking and some straw to make something to lay on at night, almost like a home from home, certainly a great improvement on sitting in a fox hole that slowly filled with water, not only filled with water, but froze solid as well. About this time they fixed a screen in one of the buildings and put on a film, shall I ever forget it? We sat there watching this film about "Fats Waller" with the shells banging away around us, I can remember very clearly thinking, "I wish I were elsewhere".

By this time there were many fresh young new faces in the company, many old friends had long departed, one had to look hard to find a familiar face that you knew, I remember the odd feeling of being a stranger in one's own company, so many had left us, one way or another. Had I known it, time was beginning to run out for me. In the company of one or two of my old friends we had laid out our sacks in a dry corner of the wooden building that was not too badly damaged, one of the floor boards creaked when I lay down, thinking "what the devils wrong with it". I lifted up this loose board and found a sack underneath filled with bottles, tried it, and found it was very good quality Sherry. We helped ourselves and put the bottles back for another night, from then on we always had our nightcap.

This Dutch SS camp was used by my company throughout the winter and provided an excellent base for our winter operations. Where ever the Germans ruled, they always tried to enlist the local youth into the SS. With pictures of heroic soldiers and all the usual, propaganda to influence young minds. This wooden hutted camp was one such.

At this point I have to tell of the hunger that stalked Holland, and that many soldiers shared their food with the local folk, where they could, I know I did. Later with starvation abroad in Holland, the two combatants made a pact to allow a huge food drop over the Netherlands,

The enemy kept their word, and did not interfere with the huge formations of Lancasters flying low over Holland in the food drop.

The Bridge. The Deserted Town.

Spud, yes, the same fellow! The dispatch rider, both of us had been sent to do a job, for the life of me I cannot remember where we had been, but it was on our way back to our company that it happened. In a strange country it was quite easy to get lost, for sometimes we were ahead of the enemy and sometimes behind.

I can recall that it was a beautiful calm and sunny day, warm with no wind, just a very pleasant autumn day. Somewhere, we had taken the wrong turning and arrived in this little town. Stopped our bikes to look at our maps, just standing there in the middle of the street with the warm sunshine on the back of our necks. I remember the golden autumn sunshine lighting up the buildings of the main street, a neat and tidy little town with no war damage at all, unusual in this war area. One of those days that stays in your memory. All the World seemed at peace.

At the end of the main street, about three hundred yards away, was a bridge, a large grey steel bridge, a bridge with a single arching span, and shining in the sunlight. I do not know what river it crossed we never went to look, our instincts told us there was something very wrong, it was all far too quiet. Slowly we began to realize that the place was deserted, everything was silent, nothing moved, not even a cat, just utter silence in this little town, and completely undamaged by warfare, something very rare and unusual on the Maas river line.

On this beautiful day, just a small and peaceful country town, but a place of this size ought to have some sign of life, some people around, after all there was no damage and no sign of warfare? Stood there in the middle of the street, the hair on the back of our necks stood up! It's an odd feeling being in a deserted town, no damage, no people, nothing, just utter silence. It seems that all the people had fled. Spud and I looked at each other, we both had the feeling we were being watched, had we gone through the enemy lines? We had done so before, on several occasions.

Not unusual, we lost two water wagons that drove down the wrong road and were never seen again. Slowly and without appearing to look scared, we got on our bikes started them up and shot off down the road as though the devil himself was after us.

After leaving, we took precise notes of where we were and later reported the existence of this town and bridge to our officers, nothing came of it, they even seemed disinterested. One thing is for sure, I will not forget standing in that warm and sunny street with the hair on my neck standing up. I can still see that street in that little town with the shops and buildings lit up with golden autumn sunlight. Even today it's like a photo, sharp and clear, something, I will never forget or erase from my mind. That was quite an odd experience and one that still puzzles me seventy years on. But like so many odd, and sometimes ridiculous events, the answer is never found.

Had I known it, my time was running out. A great many familiar faces and friends had long departed. Many new young faces appeared. The war had taken a terrible toll on the company.

Having been wounded in Normandy, I always had this feeling that lightening never strikes twice. That idea was shortly to be proved wrong .For in fact, taking the averages of life expectancy of those in action, I had already gone long past my sell by date. Next time BANG! Oh dear oh dear.

All my boyhood dreams of playing cricket for Hampshire vanished. I was never going to be good enough for that anyway. But we can all dream.

My book 'Cameos of War'.

At the ridiculously cheap price of £11, it tells the story of a nineteen year old Swanage lad, from Normandy to the border of Germany, and all the events and battles that took place. This is the last short run of fifty copies. In this case all the profits are going to BLESMA and Julia's House for very sick little children. With the main going to Julia's House. Obtainable from Gazette Towers, or from myself in Bell Street.

Elderly Being Scammed

raudsters can be very convincing, which is why Dorset Police is warning residents, particularly elderly people in the Poole area, of a telephone scam.

Victims, most of whom are elderly, are being targeted by fraudsters. The perpetrators call the householder and purport to be from a legitimate organisation, such as a bank or police force.

The fraudster sounds bona fide and on some occasions, persuades the victim to part with their savings.

Poole North Neighbourhood Inspector David Parr said: "This is a despicable crime, which is why we are trying to raise awareness and prevent potential victims falling foul of scams. Dorset Police has established a dedicated operation to tackle this fraud problem and we are linking in with other national operations to build a picture of who is preying on elderly and vulnerable people."

"A 24-year-old man was recently arrested in Poole and has now been released on bail as enquiries continue. However, I am confident that this scam is the work of more than one person, so we are continuing our efforts to raise awareness of the scam and prevent further losses occurring."

Detective Inspector Andy Roberts is the force lead for courier fraud, and has some tips on how to avoid losing money to fraudsters.

He advised: "If someone contacts you on the phone and asks you for your bank account number and pin number, NEVER give them out. The police will never ask for your bank details over the phone and will never ask you to withdraw or transfer money for them."

R.N.L.I. Crew Profile

Jane Flood, Chair of Swanage Lifeboat Fundraisers

ane took over the role of the Chair of the Swanage Lifeboat Fundraisers from Angela Morris at the beginning of March. She was initially involved with fundraising for Swanage RNLI as a sixth form pupil at Swanage Grammar School in the early 70s. At this time she was part of the Swanage Sailing Club and often crewed, in his Clinker built day boat, for Swanage RNLI volunteer Lou Hardy. Lou would tell Jane about the role of the RNLI and the lifesaving work of the crew, leaving a lasting impression.

After leaving school, and Swanage to train and work as a Registered Nurse, Jane continued to return several times a year to visit her parents and got married in the town in 1982. Finally, in November 2014, Jane and her husband Brian retired and moved back to her home town.

Not long after settling in, Jane started volunteering in the RNLI shop, and taking an active role in the fundraising.

Jane, who loves North beach, and the ever-changing coastline along which she walks her two dogs in all weathers, says:

"Having met so many lovely people in the last year, I decided that I have the time to volunteer as Chair of Fundraising when Angela decided to step down in March. It's a voluntary post and involves planning the overall events programme, with the input of all the fundraising volunteers and lifeboat crew. I am responsible for calling meetings, and generally keeping abreast of the events that are suggested.

"I am looking forward to us all working together to support our Swanage lifeboat crew."

"I can't wait to see the new Shannon class lifeboat in the new boathouse, and to have the facilities that meet the demands of the crew, pre and post shouts. I am very proud to be a new part of the team!"

The Swanage Lifeboat Fundraisers have a full list of events for the start of 2015, which includes:

18 April - Soup and Sweets

8-10 May - Diesel Train Event

25 May - Drax Open Garden Day May Day Event

5 - 7 June - Swanage Fish Festival

Kingston Country Fair

urther to the press release sent at the beginning of the year, I would like to update the progress that has been made with regard to this event. It has now been decided to call it "The Kingston Country Fair" mainly to give a more rural theme to the event which will now take place on Sunday 28th June 2015, opening at 11am on the day. We are hopeful to find a suitable personality to actually open the Fair.

So far we have had positive responses from many diverse directions where attractions should include: Heritage and Vintage vehicles, Dog Agility Display, Bell Ringers, The Adams Axe Men, Model Flying Display, Steam Engines, Fairground Rides, various Side Shows & Stalls, Music and Singers, Hog Roast and of course our famous cream tea with views looking over the Purbeck Hills and Corfe Castle.

Any help with publicity that can attract further attractions to join us on the day and can further enhance the event would be much appreciated, our contact details are below. As indicated in the previous press release, we are raising funds for the Dorset & Somerset Air Ambulance as we did in 2013, raising over £2500 - a figure we hope to exceed substantially this year.

The location of the event will be the same as before, in the field next to Kingston Country Courtyard just outside the village of Kingston, which offers magnificent views across Purbeck. Space is not an issue as we can accommodate as many attractions and parking as required.

If you are interested in attending or participating, please contact our organisers Mr and Mrs Alan Fry by email ann@fryfarm.net or on 01929 481663. Graham Lambert

Wareham Town Council Update

Julie, our Gazette correspondent, details the goings on in recent council meetings.....

News from Wareham Town Council Meeting March 2015 County Councillor B. Ezzard reported that:

The Dorset County Council (DCC) agreed a 1.99% increase in Council Tax as recommended by the Cabinet. Cuts in DCC expenditure have resulted in 200 redundancies with more to follow.

The Divisional Fund allows each County Councillor up to £5,000 for funding local community projects.

Network Rail have yet to submit plans for the south side of the ramped railway bridge to the Purbeck District Council Planner, then a planning application, so a ramped bridge cannot be complete before the end of the year.

Monmouth Road repairs are planned for this spring.

The Town Mayor-Elect for the Civic Year 2015/2016 is Councillor Ms D. Adkins and the Deputy Town Mayor-Elect is Councillor Mr M. Wiggins.

The possibility of a replica mayoral chain for security purposes was voiced by the Mayor and the Town Clerk reported on the potential costs. Following discussion, the matter was then referred to the Policy, Resources and Finance Committee, for more detailed consideration.

The Planning and Transport Committee meeting in February raised no objection to an application to build over the public conveniences next to the Quay Inn a rooftop terrace with a roofed kitchen at the back. Planning consent from Purbeck District Council and then acceptance by Wareham Town Council are outstanding prerequisites.

The Wareham in Bloom Spring Sale raised £270. New members are sought for the group.

Partial Review of the Purbeck Local Plan Issues and Options:

Concerns had been voiced about Northmoor allotments and the Burial Ground and it was noted that the provision of allotments is a statutory requirement;

The proposals for possible housing sites, which have been put forward by landowners and developers, are not new and nothing will happen quickly;

The number of houses to be built is up for debate as much as their location and a Councillor asked how many houses had been built in Purbeck already in this planning period;

At this early stage of the review, all suggestions can be considered.

Consultation on the proposed conversion to Academy Status of Wareham St Mary Primary School:

Concerns were expressed by Councillors about conversion to Academy Status which means taking the school out of local authority control. Academies are being strongly promoted by central government and the governing body of Wareham St Mary feel that it is better to choose which schools they will combine with in a Multi-Academy Trust than to have Academy Status enforced and no choice in the other schools.

Council decided that a small working party would meet to collate councillors' views sent to the Town Clerk and give a response to the public consultation, due to close on 9th March.

Look out for notices about the Annual Town Meeting on 8th April at the Town Hall at 7.30pm, a meeting for electors of the parish hosted by Wareham Town Council.

A new format to include a presentation on a proposed Neighbourhood Plan is envisaged together with the usual Open Forum for electors' to voice their opinions, and it should be interesting.

The public is welcome to attend the next meeting of the Wareham Town Council at 7pm on Tuesday 21st April in the Town Hall, Wareham – tel: 01929 553006 for further information about all of the Council's meetings or visit the website at www.wareham-tc.gov.uk

Help Find Dorset's Rural Community Champion!

A grii is asking the Dorset farming community and the general public to nominate their local community heroes as part of the nationwide campaign to identify the UK's Rural Community Champion.

The campaign will celebrate the people who make a real difference to the rural communities in which they live and work, but may often see their efforts go unnoticed and unrecognised.

Farm manager Al Brooks is an example of someone making a real difference to their local farming community. Al is dedicated to helping older generations of farmers into dignified and comfortable retirement.

As a trustee for The Addington Fund, Al is committed to increasing awareness of the plight of those in the farming community who need help, but who often don't ask until it is too late. Alistair involves himself in all aspects of the charity's work - fundraising, strategy discussions and helping to organise grant-aided work, to name just a few, all helping to make a difference.

Anyone that brings a benefit or improvement to the rural community in Dorset is a potential Rural Community Champion and is eligible for nomination. They may be fundraisers, care for elderly neighbours, help restore or maintain community buildings, organise farm visits for school children or organise and support community events and projects.

The competition will identify 20 local winners from all the nominations received across the UK. They will each win £50 for themselves or to put towards their local project.

From these winners a panel of judges will shortlist three finalists, one from each Agrii region – North, East and West – with Dorset being a part of the West region. The overall national winner will be chosen from the three finalists by Agrii customers and will win £1,000. The two runners up will each win £500.

The Rural Community Champion campaign is being run in conjunction with FCN – a charity supported by Agrii that provides advice and support for farming families in times of crisis.

Swanage Fire Station Update

elcome to this month's look at what has been happening at Swanage Fire station.

Operationally we had quite a busy February.

We answered 21 emergency calls these included:-

- · One Chimney Fire.
- Three special service calls, one of which required the attendance of not only two of our appliances but also our Animal Rescue Team from Poole fire station to rescue a horse (pictured). The horse had become stuck in a river on Scotland heath, Corfe Castle, with the water up to its back. The teams worked together and I'm glad to say there was a happy ending and the horse was rescued and reunited with its owner after a check-up from a local vet.
- Nine false alarms at different properties around the town
- Three stand by move to cover Wareham and Westbourne whilst they where attending incidents
- Four property fires that were in people's homes.

My safety message this month is the importance of having working smoke alarms. Two of the four property fires we attended this month were in properties were the occupiers had left the wood burners on and then gone out.

On both occasions the smoke alarms in the property alerted a passer-by who in turn alerted us. On our arrival we have had to gain access, on one occasion via a first floor window and on the second occasion by breaking in through a rear door. At another incident the alarm going off alerted the occupier which in turn gave them time to evacuate the premises safely.

Please follow these simple steps to ensure you, your family and your home are all protected.

- Looking after smoke alarm
- · Once a week, test your alarm by pressing the test button until it sounds. Once a year change the battery (unless it's a ten-year alarm). Twice a year open the case and gently vacuum the inside using the soft-brush attachment to remove dust from the sensors. If it doesn't open, vacuum through the holes. After ten years it's best to get a whole new alarm.

- Installing and maintenance
- Smoke alarms are easy to fit. You need a screwdriver, and that's about it..... Installing your alarm is easy to do and only takes a few minutes, just follow the manufacturer's instructions. If it's difficult for you to do, ask a family member of friend to help you, or contact us. Don't be tempted to have a go yourself if you feel unsteady or unsure you could fall and injure yourself.

How many?

The more smoke alarms you have the safer you'll be. You should have one on each floor – best on the hall and landing ceilings. If you have only one smoke alarm and two floors, put it where you would hear it if you were asleep - on the ceiling at the top of the stairs leading to the bedrooms.

Where?

The best place is on the ceiling, near or at the middle of the room or hall. The alarm should be at least 30 cm (one foot) away from a wall or light.

And finally...the best and safest thing to do is request a Home Safety Check from us by calling free phone 0800 038 2323. We'll visit you at home and fit or replace smoke alarms if appropriate, and give advice on cooking safety, electric blankets, chimneys, and much

Stay safe and don't forget to test your smoke alarm.

Dorset Families 'Forced Out Of Countryside'

Rural Housing Report predicts Dorset families "being forced out of the countryside"

new report on housing policy which highlights the challenges faced by rural communities has been welcomed by Dorset Community Action(DCA). The charity, a member of the ACRE (Action with Communities in Rural England) network of rural community councils, said the report of the Rural Housing Policy Review Group gave crucial insight into the affordable housing crisis.

It said the Review Group, chaired by Lord Richard Best OBE, mirrored the asks of the next Government set out in the ACRE Network's 2015 manifesto. The report, sponsored by Hastoe Housing Association, whose regional office is based in Dorchester, warns that families on low incomes face being forced out of the countryside faster than ever before as a result of recent policy changes.

The ACRE Network is calling for the next Government to provide a proportion of affordable housing on all rural developments.

The ACRE Network's key concerns on the affordable rural housing crisis are:

- A chronic shortage of houses, especially in communities of fewer than 3,000 people, where a total of just 2,279 new affordable homes were built in 2013/14. According to the Rural Housing Policy Review, the fair share for rural areas should be 7,500 per year – that's an average of one for each parish.
- The rising price of homes there is a higher ratio between lower quartile house price and average incomes in rural areas. Houses in rural areas cost 8.4 times the average salary, against 6.4 in urban areas.
- The removal of a national rural housing development target, which means that developers will focus on urban areas where it is cheaper and easier to build.
- The reduction in Government grant rates for rural housing providers.
 The Review says that in 2011, grant rates were cut from an average of £45,000 per unit to £20,000.
- The recent change in Section 106 policy, which removes the need to build affordable housing on sites of fewer than 10 homes.

- A shortage of smaller, affordable homes in rural areas, posing problems for tenants affected by the 'bedroom tax' who need to downsize.
- So-called 'affordable rents', where social landlords charge up to 80% of the local market rent, are not affordable in high value areas for people on lower incomes.
- A reduction in funding for Rural Housing Enablers (RHEs), many of whom are based within the ACRE Network. RHEs work with communities and developers to identify local needs; where they are in post, more affordable homes are built.

ACRE chief executive Janice Banks said: "The future for rural affordable housing looks pretty bleak unless the next Government rises to the challenge, rethinks its funding strategy and reverses recent policy changes – particularly the ten-unit threshold on new sites.

"The Rural Housing Policy Review notes that a number of different Government policies do not appear to have taken the rural impact into account. The ACRE Network, with its reach into 52,000 grassroots organisations, would welcome the opportunity to work more closely with policymakers to ensure that the unique difficulties facing rural communities are taken into account before decisions are set in stone."

Finally! The Olympic Legacy Reaches Purbeck

t has come to the attention of our Sporting Correspondent that plans for a Swanage Ski Area are now at an advanced stage. Because of the lack of local 'Olympic legacy', and with sports' participation in general decreasing, the Government has stepped in and put forward a number of projects that it wants to fast track through the planning system.

They have chosen Swanage as one of the main sites for this scheme as it was decided that somewhere vaguely south and west, within reach of London, would be ideal so that Ministers can get here for photo shoots without wasting an entire day travelling.

The funding is already in place, mainly provided by The Olympic Sustainability Committee, the Lottery Infrastructure Fund and, hopefully, some European cash will be brought in to complete the funding.

A major French alpine resort is helping out by sending some used ski lifts and the expertise required to install them, thus slightly reducing costs.

Phase one of the project will be the extension of Whitecliff Road in Swanage to access a new car park (to hold 200 cars) in the valley below Ballard Estate. A ski rental shop will also be built here, where everything needed for skiing can be hired or purchased.

Phase two will be a road across the top of the hill, following the existing track, to access a new cafe to be built on the top of the ski slope. The cafe will serve skiers and casual walkers using the coast path and will have barbecues on sunny days.

During the building of the cafe, three wind turbines will also be erected, which will then provide power to the site year-round.

Phase three will be the laying of the green-dyed, state of the art skiing surface, which will cover most of the hill. To break the area into separate runs, solar panels will be placed as markers to mark the boundaries of the graded slopes.

Phase four will be the installation of the ski lifts. There will be a chairlift from Swanage beach, just north of Shep's Hollow, to the car park. Another chairlift from the car park to the cafe will be installed, with a couple of strategically placed draglifts and a small draglift for the beginner's slope.

Phase five is the Cross Country ski loop going from the cafe to Old Harry and back, and the Ski Jump going into the sea, which is thought will bring large numbers of visitors due to the unique situation of the sea jump and the spectacular views.

The three wind turbines and one hundred solar panels are expected to generate a significant amount of power, enough to run the lifts and the floodlights for night skiing. Any spare power will be sold to the National Grid, with the money going back into the facilities to offset the costs.

The Ski Jump is expected to be the main attraction, as this would be the only one of its kind in the country. Special skis are being designed that release at the end of the jump, reducing the chance of injury.

When the question "Would artificial skiing be a good attraction for Swanage?"* was asked in a town centre survey, 95% of respondents agreed that it would be good for the town.

If all goes according to plan, the bulldozers will move in early in June, with completion a year later.

The site may be utilised as a training ground for skiers hoping to qualify for the 2020 Olympics, in which case it will be closed to the general public whilst the teams are utilising the ground for official practice.

*We surveyed 2407 people in Dorchester 12/12/2014.

any of us have dreamt of a lifetime of adventure, but few of us have managed to attain more than the odd holiday somewhere slightly different to home. Life tends to get in the way of dreams for most of us, and few of us get to leave anything lasting behind us when we go.

Born in 1943 and raised in Swanage, Purbeck author, Ilay Cooper, is one of the few who can tell a different tale. Known to many in Purbeck as the author of several books, including the ever-popular 'Purbeck Revealed' and 'The Square and Compass', Ilay has also led a vastly interesting life on the other side of the globe, in India, where he is also well known for his writing.

llay quietly spent decades of his life funding his travels around India by working in a Purbeck quarry - a few months here and there funded what became a lifetime of exploration and documentation. In 1972 llay visited a friend in an Indian village, purchased a bicycle, and set out for Rajasthan. Here, in the arid, desert regions near Churu in Shekhawati, llay discovered local merchants' mansions (havelis), covered with bright paintings and murals. Finding no information or illustrations of these beautiful painted houses, a lifetime's work began, mapping, photographing and recording the history and background of these buildings and the districts in which they sat.

Eventually commissioned by the Indian National Trust for Art and Culture to formally document the havelis, Ilay, working with local teacher, Ravindra, photographed and documented 2260 buildings. Ilay was later commissioned to record the monuments of Diu, a Portuguese enclave on Gujarat's coast.

llay wrote, illustrated and drew the maps for 'The Guide to Painted Towns of Shekhawati', followed by the 'The Painted Towns of Shekhawati'; 'The Arts and Crafts of India', 'Traditional Buildings of India', 'The Blue Guide to Northern India' and the recently-published hardback tome 'Rajasthan: Exploring Painted Shekhawati'. 'The Painted Towns of Shekhawati' remains the authoritative guide to the region to this day.

I travelled out to Rajasthan in January to meet up with Ilay on one of his last visits to India, wanting to document one of our own at work on the other side of the world while the chance remained. Ilay was returning to finalise an update to his guide to Shekhawati. After twenty-seven hours of travel, I arrived at Jaipur, the capital of Rajasthan in north-eastern India.

The next day, I met up with llay at the Jaipur Literary Festival, the largest free festival of its kind in the world. Superbly organised, in the grounds of Diggi Palace in the centre of Jaipur, we sat and listened to a few debates before heading off for a tour of the Pink City - an enclosed area of Jaipur famous for its pink-painted buildings. Highly knowledgeable, llay led me through the bustling streets, remarking on the history of each building as we passed. Various fast-flowing conversations in Hindi (in which llay is fluent) preceeded rickshaw rides through the city as we headed for lunch. I took the time to pop into the Jantar Mantar Observatory while llay relaxed outside with a good book, having visited the site long before, in the days when tourists were still able to climb unhindered on the monuments.

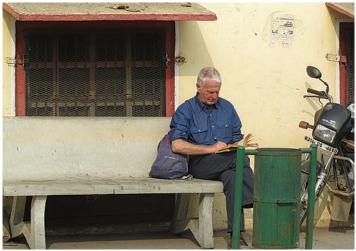

The following day, we headed up to the mountains above Jaipur on foot, climbing up to Tiger Fort, an eighteenth century mountain hillfort. From there we hiked along the ridge, passing holy men, shrines and other travellers along the way, until we reached the sixteenth century Amber Fort. It was here that my health took a turn for the worse, and rather than exploring the absolutely stunning Amber Fort with my own personal guide, llay was tasked with hailing a tuk tuk and getting me back to the hotel. From there I was whisked to hospital, and the next six days vanished in a mess of tubes and IV fluids. A comment on Indian healthcare, you ask? It put the NHS to utter shame - the cleanliness, professionalism and care was outstanding.

llay headed off to Shekhawati alone, to meet up with long-standing friends and to complete the required updates for the guidebook. I did not catch up with him again until we were both back in Purbeck in March.

I'd like to thank llay most sincerely for allowing me a small glimpse into his Indian life. I learnt an enormous amount during our short time together, thanks to his incredible knowledge and I thoroughly enjoyed our mountain fort-to-fort hike. Something for me to remember for years to come.

Next time you see this unassuming-looking man cycling or walking the lanes of Purbeck, do give him a wave and remember that sometimes behind the facade lies an amazingly rich life of fasinating experience, adventure and knowledge.

llay is certainly one such individual - on two continents. Purbeck is certainly proud to boast him as one of our own.

Ilay waits for me whilst I visit the Jantar Mantar Observatory in Jaipur

THE SWANAGE ARMYTUNK

Planning is now well under way for five main events that will take place this summer and leading into the autumn.

In preparation for this, an extremely well attended meeting took place at the Royal British Legion on 16th February where twenty two people, representing the main stakeholders including the Army, the Town and Dorset Police were in attendance.

The first event will be on Saturday 6th June when a People's Commemoration of D-Day will be held at Leeson House from 1400 onwards.

Dinah Johnson is hoping that as many people as possible will support the event, which promises to be a pleasant affair, set in the grounds of a location that directly supported the development of radar during World War 2.

Armed Forces Day events will be held up and down the country on Saturday 27th June, and each year one main location is chosen to be the focal point; this year it will be Guildford in Surrey.

We are hoping that our adopted Army unit at Blandford will be in attendance and also that the Air Training Corps unit based at Ramsgate in Kent which will help us to recognise the 75th Anniversary the Battle of Britain. Most events will be based on the Swanage Railway.

In July we will mark three decades of the Royal Corps of Signals supporting the re-building of the Swanage Railway.

There are a number of planned events that were postponed from last year, and so we are keen to see the Town Council's plans for the War Memorial come to fruition, as we plan towards a military Liberty Parade marching through Swanage at 1100 on Saturday 25th July.

Some of you will realise that this will be immediately before the start of the 2015 Carnival events. Having liaised with the Executive of the Carnival, it was agreed that we could work towards a superb day for the town, with soldiers on parade at the start of eight days of summer fun.

The next planning meeting will be held on 12th March, following which more details will be known.

Next on the itinerary is the Ceremony of Beating Retreat which will be held on Wednesday 29th July.

Last year I was requested to act as the Master of Ceremony, and I have offered to assist with this role again this year, in the hope that I might also find sponsorship for this Carnival event too.

The musical extravaganza performed by the Hampshire Constabulary Band last July was a real feast, and I am wondering whether to supplement the performance with the series of readings that nine of us delivered at the rededication of the War Memorial last November?

Whilst it may indeed be a summer of sunshine away, as usual the Town Council and the Royal British Legion will work towards the annual Remembrance Parade, which this year will be held in Swanage on Sunday 8th November.

If you have any thoughts or suggestions please send a line or two to frank.roberts1@virgin.net especially if you would like to join our willing band Swanage based 'Armed Forces Ambassadors'.

Thank you. Frank

or the first time in five years the 18,000 rural homes in Dorset that use oil for heating are spending less on their fuel bills than urban households connected to mains gas.

The price of heating an average three bedroom property with oil is now £119 less per year than mains gas, according to the latest figures from independent industry analysts.

The announcement has been welcomed by homeowners across Dorset who are benefiting from a 30% fall in the price of heating oil over the last two years. Furthermore, the good news is set to continue with industry experts predicting the price of oil is set to stay low for the foreseeable future and may drop even further.

Oil is also much cheaper than the alternative fuels for rural properties, coming in at 47% (£919) less expensive than LPG and 37% (£590) less than electric storage heaters to heat the same average, three bedroom home.

WESTOVER NISSAN Supporting 'Purbeck Good Neighbours' So that they can help others

A Volunteers Story.

Since I joined Purbeck Good Neighbours a year ago I have done two tasks. The first call from the co-ordinator asked me to contact a lady in Swanage to arrange to call on her to change a light bulb on her landing. I took my wife with me which was a good idea as they were able to have a good old chinwag while I did the task.

The lady had been living alone since her husband died and did not get out very often as they used to do everything together. When asked, she agreed to have a POPP Wayfinder call and give her information of activities and support available in the area. I heard that the lady had made new friends after joining a lunch club and going to a craft group as she was a keen knitter.

The second task was to retune a television for a gentleman. On arrival it turned out he also needed a couple of light bulbs replaced. When the tasks were completed, I was able to show him how to retune his television himself. He was really grateful and insisted on giving more than the £2 minimum donation.

I'm happy to be a Good Neighbour and like being able to help. It really does make a difference to those who are finding some household tasks just that bit too difficult. It also helps them to stay independent in their own homes.

GENERAL ELECTION HUSTINGS' DEBATE

South Dorset Parliamentary Candidates agree to both address and be questioned by you, the local electors

LOOK OUT FOR APRIL DATE TO BE ANNOUNCED SHORTLY

Vote! Vote! - General Election 7 May.

In the run-up to previous General Elections "Hustings" were held in Swanage so that parliamentary candidates for the seat of South Dorset could both address and be questioned by you, the local electors.

Some of you may remember the very well-attended Swanage Senior Forum's Hustings event before the last election, which was packed to the rafters.

"Churches Together" in the Swanage area are busily organising an APRIL

"Public Hustings Debate" before the General Election on 7 May. We understand that it will be held at the Emmanuel Church Centre, although the April date and time has yet to be announced.

Watch out for full details in local press, leaflets and on social media.

Age UK is also reminding people how important it is to vote, and for us over 50s, suggest relevant questions to put to all the candidates regarding their national manifestos, and how they then intend to interpret these to represent our local community on such issues as the NHS, social care, housing, benefits, transport, energy costings and much more. For those of you who use the internet, do go to www.ageuk.org.uk\votelaterinlife or pop into our local library, for full details.

We in the Forum urge all of you eligible - young and old - to use your power in the ballot box, however cynical you might feel about many politicians and their policies.

After all, it's what democracy is supposed to be all about.

I'm Glad I'm Not Young Anymore

ust taxed the car... £145 and I don't even get a tax disc. You'd have thought they could have worked out how to email one. I have an empty tax disc holder. So this is the tax disc I have created to put in it...I'VE PAID MY ROAD TAX ... NOW GO OUT AND FIX THE B####Y POTHOLES!

Now I know that some of those hedges bordering the A351 were 'out of hand' and needed attention late last year, and that they have to flail-mow the hedges in a disgracefully disrespectful manner almost every year because no-one now seems to have the time, ability or inclination to lay a hedge properly, but these thickets and hedgerows were home to wildlife who regrettably have no say in the matter.

The aggressive flailing has not only left scarred hedges and empty nests but has also revealed the truth about what a disgustingly filthy race we are. Paper, plastic bottles and bags, soiled nappies, seems that although we're all full of self-righteousness about speeding, parking, and politically incorrect language, we don't give a stuff about the verges on our own roads. What does that say about us?

Of course, there isn't money in the budget for the Council to employ litter-pickers anymore, ditto for people to clean the grime off the mouldy unreadable signposts, though there's plenty to employ County Council officials and pay their pensions. We try to encourage holidaymakers and tourists and then - welcome to Dirty Dorset!

Much argument about the proposed 30 limit in the village of Harmans Cross. But there are lots of other villages in Purbeck with and without 30 limits. Do you live in a village? Do you want a 30 limit, or conversely have you got one that you don't really need or isn't justifiable?

In February 2005's motoring page I wrote "All new cars will soon be fitted with Sat-Nav. Big Brother is watching you. An in-car spy which the authorities can potentially hook up to the central DVLC database. Every time you exceed the speed limit. Sat Nav will notify central database and issue a ticket. Automatically. Probably by that time they will automatically take £60 off your credit card and once you have the requisite number of points, disqualify you and who knows, even turn off your ignition.

Don't laugh. All the technology is already available. They're just waiting for us all to fall – or be pushed – into the Sat Nav trap. Which is why they're not treating Sat-Nav users the same way as mobile phone users and considering Sat-Nav use a danger.....

I read recently in a national newspaper of plans for 'self-drive' cars where you just program in the destination and the car drives there without any assistance from the driver. Clearly suggesting that within twenty years, car speeds will be limited electronically via their Sat-Navs. Is this spooky, or what?

On the positive side, there's a whole new bunch of cars being released in 2016; most of them will have sat-navs but probably few will have proper spare wheels.

Look out for the Nissan X-Trail Auto, which I'm testing in the hills of North Devon very shortly, for the Toyota Aygo Wave – a mini-convertible - the sporty Nissan Juke Nismo with brilliant 0-60 times yet great economy too. Look out too for the new Mazda 2 which is coming out at the end of March; I've seen the car at the press unveiling and all I can say is that everything I raved about in the new Mazda 3 is there – all of it – but smaller and cheaper!

Hope you picked up Richard Hammond's great review of the new MX5 on 'Top Gear' recently! Amongst all the garbage on that program that you have to fast-forward through, there are a few 'gems' – such as some of their travelogues where the photography is stunning.

OK, you may not like Jeremy Clarkson. If so, then don't watch. I'm sorry if it offends you but in my book he's a brilliant motoring journalist, a really funny writer, and shines like a beacon of common sense amidst the politically correct morass that is the BBC,

Was it Maurice Chevalier who sang 'I'm glad that I'm not young anymore'? Well, I know just how he felt.

Driving that superb Toyota GT86 made me really conscious of the fact that our roads are totally overcrowded, over-regulated, and that the good old days of driving for its own sake are sadly long gone. Nowhere to really use a performance car anymore, just quick dashes between roundabouts and queues of traffic. Fines and penalties if you actually get caught using a sports car for its intended purpose. Makes you wonder why they build cars these days that will go over 70 mph.

My son is 37. He's a good driver; a very good driver indeed. Quick reactions. Very aware. He has a clean licence and wants to keep it that way. But even though he's driving an incredibly powerful Audi RS, he will never experience what we experienced in the golden years of driving; the Lotus Cortina, the old 2.8 injection Capri, the 130 mph trips down empty and unpoliced motorways with the stereo up loud, playing Boston and Zeppelin; the sheer joy of driving fast for the hell of it. Not hurting anyone. Twenty years of sheer enjoyment. Revelling in the art of driving, the days when the journey was as important as the destination.

Those days are long gone. Every authority is out to remove money from the motorist, from hidden speed cameras right through to tachographs, from automatic penalties for forgetting to renew your road tax right through to £60 penalties for disabled people parking in the wrong place by mistake.

Penalty points for eating an apple at the wheel. £5 a gallon for fuel. £10 to drive to the nation's capital. Queues for everything. Half an hour trying to get out of Castlepoint (serves you right for going in).

So what has my son to look forward to in his driving career? Not a lot. And it's very, very unlikely to get better.

It will always be a means of transport. But sadly, never a pleasure like we had in the 70s and 80s.

I'm glad I'm not young anymore.

Leaf Electric Car Generates Funds For Macmillan

he service team at Westover Nissan in 🛭 Bournemouth have silently raised £276.78 for Macmillan Cancer Care by encouraging service and MOT customers needing a courtesy car to give the all-electric Nissan LEAF a try. For every customer prepared to go electric, Westover Nissan has contributed £2.50 to a charity collection car - a scaled-down model of a Nissan LEAF.

The LEAF courtesy car collection brings the total donated by Westover Group to Macmillan in the last 18 months to more than £7,500. Westover's South Coast showrooms - based in Bournemouth, Christchurch, Corfe Mullen, Ferndown and Poole are currently Macmillan's top 'World's Biggest Coffee Morning' fundraisers in Dorset.

"We're trying to spread the word about just how great electric motoring is," says Sallyann Tanner, electric vehicle expert at Westover Nissan. "Encouraging our service customers to use the LEAF for a day or two means they have a chance to check it out on a 'business as usual' day to assess how it fits into their lives. We've yet to see anyone return without a smile on their face and very often people come back with a completely different mind-set about the pros of driving a fully electric car. Even when we've had to gently cajole customers into using the LEAF the feedback we've had has been overwhelmingly positive, with an almost unanimous verdict that it's just like driving a 'normal' car, plus that it was a great deal faster than anticipated!

"It's perfect that we've been able to combine our mission to get more people sampling electric motoring with Macmillan's mission to generate funds locally."

The LEAF is a technologically advanced family car with five doors, a good sized boot and an automatic gear box. It emits zero CO2 emissions and can be recharged via a standard 13 amp plug socket overnight or in just 30 minutes at one of the rapid charge points found at car showrooms, shopping centres, car parks and other public places. The average monthly cost to drive a LEAF is around £20, compared to £157 for a similarly sized diesel powered car, meaning LEAF owners make an average annual fuel saving of just over £1,600.

The Nissan LEAF is still available as a courtesy car at Westover Nissan. Please ask at service reception or, to arrange a longer test drive, please contact Sallyann Tanner on 0800 999 2325 or pop into the showroom.

OUR HOUSE!

s the saying goes home is definitely where the heart is. Whether it's a small flat, or a mansion, it doesn't matter – what counts is whether or not you are comfortable in your own particular living space.

With the upcoming Easter & Spring Bank holidays – many of us may be thinking that this is the time to start some home improvement.

According to the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors replacing a kitchen and adding a bathroom are the most popular renovations, and are always recommended in terms of adding value to your property. Other value added suggestions include building an extension, converting the loft and fitting central heating.

However, if your budget doesn't run to major renovation, there are still a whole host of ways you can make new and exciting transformations to your living space. These could include a change of colour scheme with a fresh paint job, new carpets or flooring, new curtains and soft furnishings (or maybe just freshening up the old ones!) or a change of lighting, furniture or simply buying a few new nic-nacs.

Over the following pages we have invited local tradespeople and businesses to give you a flavour of what is on offer here in Purbeck. We are sure you will find some ideas to inspire you whatever your pocket.

Finally - a word of warning - research has shown that whilst British homeowners are big spenders when it comes to improving their homes hundreds of thousands of home improvement jobs are started with the best intentions, then left unfinished when DIY-ers get bored and lose interest.

Apparently around four out of ten of us have unfinished DIY projects and over half of those outstanding jobs were started over three months ago! So bear this in mind – and maybe consider employing a professional local tradesman to undertake the work – at least this way you can be sure of getting the job done!

Perfect Bathrooms!

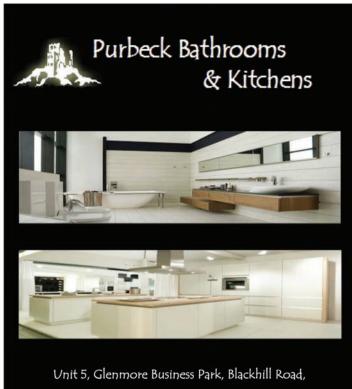

Purbeck Bathrooms & Kitchens is a small family owned business run by Bruce and Tricia Rimmer. We have over 24 years of practical experience in both design and installation, and have a tried and tested team of installers and tradesmen.

In addition to our extensive range of furniture, appliances and sanitaryware, we are delighted to now add to our portfolio Ambience Bain bathroom furniture, both as a fitted option or wall mounted units to complement our Villeroy & Boch ceramicware for those preferring a more modern look. Brassware by Grohe provides the icing on the cake, together with a wide range of tiles in our dedicated Porcelanosa room.

Our superb kitchen range by Beckermann of Germany sees more new colours this year, though the ever-popular gloss cream reigns supreme, either on its own or matched with a contrasting wood colour. We love helping our clients to put a colour scheme together which is unique to them, incorporating worktops such as Silestone, Karndean flooring, and tiles or glass splashbacks.

We look forward to welcoming you to our showroom whether for an initial browse or a more in-depth discussion of your requirements. We are open Monday to Friday 0900 -1700 hrs and Saturdays by appointment.

So – you've decided the time has come to redecorate. Now is the time to contemplate a whole new colour scheme – but what will you choose?

We had a (very) quick trawl around the internet to see what the experts are predicting as this year's colour trends, and here is a small selection of their quotes:

Bright clashing colours are going to be one of the key trends – with blue the most talked about.

Blue will be the most popular colour for interior decorating.

Midnight hues and bright cobalts – blue will be the new grey for walls.

Warm earthy colours and shades of grey will be big this year.

Dark grey is a very trendy colour for living rooms.

Grey will be the nation's favourite choice for decorating kitchens.

The colour palette for 2015 will bring a warmer spectrum of pinks, reds and oranges.

Looks to us like it can be 50 shades of practically any colour that rocks your boat!

Happy New Tax Year!

pril 6th 2015 marks the beginning of the 2015/16 tax year and a chance to look at your finances and potentially take advantage of the various allowances that are available. The first thing that a lot of people look at is the ISA allowance. A total of £15,240 can be subscribed to ISAs in the 2015/16 tax year and this can be any combination of Cash ISAs and a Stocks & Shares ISA up to the £15,240 limit.

The interest on cash deposits in ISAs is received free of income tax. All capital gains within a Stocks & Shares ISA are free of Capital Gains Tax. In the case of income, the tax treatment varies depending on the source of the income. In the case of dividend income, the 10% tax credit is still deducted so that dividends are received net, but in the case of higher rate taxpayers, no further income tax is payable.

The treatment of interest style payments (for instance income from some corporate bonds and gilts and some corporate bond funds) is even more generous, as they can in effect be received gross within an ISA with no tax payable. ISAs can therefore be particularly attractive to a higher rate taxpayer and/or those with substantial assets that could potentially be subject to Capital Gains Tax in the future (investments and for instance second properties) who have at least part of their investments sheltered from Capital Gains Tax.

It is also possible to use a 'Bed & ISA' transaction to sell investments from your ordinary account and buy them into your ISA within the ISA allowance, thus allowing an individual to build up a good sized tax free pot over time. However, there is one word of warning in that you have to make sure that the ISA charges do not outweigh the tax benefits and I would, therefore, advise that you consult your financial advisor/ investment manager about your position.

In the case of ISA style investments, there are also Child Trust Funds and Junior ISAs to consider and these have a subscription limit of £4,080 for the 2015/16 tax year.

The start of the new tax year also starts the clock ticking again for Capital Gains Tax and for the 2015/16 tax year the allowance is £11,100. Losses can be carried forward, but only if registered via your tax return or directly with the Inland Revenue.

Taking advantage of the various allowances can be beneficial, but I would suggest discussing any proposed action with your investment manager or financial advisor. Current legislation suggests that a Stocks and Shares ISA may be less suitable for you if you are a nil or low-rate tax payer. Investors should be aware that the price of shares and other investments, and the income derived from them, may fall as well as rise and the amount realised from an ISA may be less than the original sum invested.

Trading Standards

Investigating problem traders - the whole picture was recently at a meeting about problem traders. One of the key messages was that for every person who reports a problem there would be others that didn't report it out of embarrassment and problems reported would only be the tip of the iceberg.

I thought how saddening it was that we find ourselves in a situation where we become the victim of a crime but dare not report it because we feel embarrassed. When Trading Standards look at what action to take during an investigation there are numerous things we have to take into consideration. One of these is the number and gravity of the complaints. For example, if we only receive one complaint and the trader isn't known to us it might appear to be an oversight on the trader's part or simple mistake. In reality however, there may be a regular pattern of repeat offending by the trader but because the others haven't been reported we don't know about it. If we are only ever seeing the tip of the iceberg we are never getting the full picture.

Trading Standards do not act upon all complaints received but they are all recorded and used as intelligence to help focus our work. It is all these little pieces of information we receive over time that make up the whole picture enabling us to protect consumers.

Many problem traders are plausible and believable, that's why they can make a living from it. Please, if you think you have been a victim of a scam or a problem trader then let us know by phoning the Citizens Advice consumer helpline on 03454 04 05 06

Councils Invest In Future Of Purbeck Employment Site

Purbeck District Council and Dorset County Council are to invest £927,000 each in the Dorset Green employment site at Winfrith Newburgh. This will help to secure the future of one of Dorset's strategic employment sites.

Previously a nuclear facility, the site is now home to a range of businesses, including two key defence-related advanced engineering businesses.

The District Council and the County Council have been working with the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA), which is the freehold owner of the site, to acquire 6.2 hectares of land on the 40 hectare site.

The current leasehold owners of the site recently went into receivership so investment is needed in the site to provide reassurance to existing businesses and kick-start future employment development on the site to build further confidence.

This investment is in addition to successful Local Growth Deal funding of £600,000, which Purbeck District Council applied for through the Dorset Local Economic Partnership (LEP). The LEP had identified Dorset Green as a strategic employment site and a high priority for investment through the government funded growth deal.

Bruce Voss, Area Manager of the Homes and Communities Agency said: "The HCA is working tirelessly to bring new investment to Dorset Green. We are delighted to support this public sector partnership approach to kick starting investment in the site, which will herald the first significant new building investment here for more than 20 years."

It is proposed that the first phase of development in the south eastern corner of the site will commence at the earliest opportunity. A planning application will be submitted by May 2015. This would include building 1,800 square metres of modern functional workspace for small business use on 1.3 hectares of the land and a new site road to enable future sales of the remaining 4.9 hectares. Development could commence on site as early as October 2015.

In total, the site provides 40 hectares of strategic employment land. A large part of the remainder is being marketed by the Receiver which aims to identify a private sector operator who will be required to invest in the employment future of the site.

Food The Gournnet Peddler

he baked bean... yeah sure they are good, a reliable quick topping for toast, food saviour of students, and a critical ingredient in the great British fry up and also crucially the best scene in the film "Blazing Saddles". But surely they haven't always come in a can, and I was certain there must be a deluxe baked bean recipe somewhere.

I was recently in Minnesota USA, a bizarre colonial world where the temperature is between - I Oc on a nice day and -35c on the really dramatic days.

A place where your beer freezes solid before the third swig. A place where big bearded men will give you advice on this problem; "The mistake you made there Charlie, is you brought summer beer to a bike race on a frozen lake, at midnight! You need winter beer, it's easy to identify, on the label it says whisky."

It was here that I was tipped off on this classic mid-west American recipe.

Ingredients:

Pinto beans (health food shop) -IMPORTANT, these are supplied dried, you need to soak them in a lot more water than you expect for at least six hours before you start cooking.

Pork belly (butchers).

Smoked sausages (butchers again).

Chicken legs.

Can of organic plum tomatoes.

One big onion.

A good dash of Cayenne pepper.

A tablespoon of Black syrup (the yanks call it "molasses").

A teaspoon of brown sugar.

A dash of good salt.

Fresh or dried rosemary and thyme.

I tablespoon of soy sauce.

A good dash of sweet smoked paprika.

Chicken stock.

Topping ingredients.. Chopped garlic, bread crumbs (easily made by putting cool toast in a blender), and a tiny amount of lemon zest.

What to do

Soak the beans for at least six hours in plenty of water. Place them in a casserole dish.

Trim the pork belly. Maybe save the fatty skin side for pork scratchings? Chop into large cubes. Fry the pork with olive oil in a frying pan 'til it's brown and golden.

Add the chopped onion until browned slightly. Transfer to the casserole dish. Everything else (excluding the sausages and chicken, and the topping) goes into the pan, bring to a simmer, squish the tomatoes, add it all to the casserole dish.

Place the chicken on top of the stew, lid on, cook for around 90 minutes at around 170c, adding more stock or water if it starts drying out. The beans will still be soaking up the water so keep an eye on it.

Remove lid, place sausages on top, and give the sausages and chicken 40 minutes to crisp up.

Stir it up (and pop some Bob Marley on the stereo). Cover the stew with a mix of breadcrumbs, chopped garlic and lemon zest. Lid off, once this is golden, it's ready.

The pork is amazing, falling apart as you eat it. The smell is awesome, and the taste a lovely rich, spiced, tangy delight. Trust me; this recipe is going to become a frequent favourite in your kitchen.

Perhaps I should do a vegetarian recipe soon? Actually, last minute brain fart - this recipe, with big mushrooms, sweet potato, sweetcorn, and no meat, might be really, really good.....

s I'm writing this we are in full swing with our main lambing. The sheep have had an easier winter this year so the lambs seem to be coming much bigger, which can make life a bit tricky for them and for us to lamb them.

To me lambing is the start of the year, I enjoy every minute of it even when it gets tough and I have sleepless nights, but I always have Mike to help if need be.

The ewes come back to our farm at Church Knowle after spending much of the winter away on keep at other farms, helping graze and fertilize pastures that have been cut for silage earlier in the year and giving our fields a rest.

They are fed on hay and haylage we have made for them, then when the lambs are strong enough they go out into the field to skip and play, it's a great sight to see them racing each other in the evenings in their own little gangs.

We also lamb some ewes in October as we have Poll Dorset sheep that will lamb naturally at any time of year. These lambs are the Spring lambs you have for Easter they are out on grass their whole lives to give you naturally reared grass fed lamb, which can be bought at our Purbeck Products markets from April onwards together with hogget (lamb over Iyear old) mutton (at least two years old) sausages and burgers. All our products are from our animals at Church Knowle- how's that for local.

I look forward to seeing you at our markets, please ask any questions you may have about our sheep, or products. I can also tell you about our other rare breed sheep, and our shepherd's hut.

Support your local Purbeck product producers, see you on the 4th and 11th of April and try some Besties Lamb.

t Not Just Sundaes we are very proud of our team of fantastic volunteers. During the day, our team contributes in a numbers of ways from baking cakes, serving customers, washing-up and giving our customers a great welcome. During a Friday night, when the space transforms into a youth drop-in for Year 10+, another team of volunteers are there as a friendly face for those who wish to pop in and have a chat, play pool or just hang out.

But volunteering at Not Just Sundaes is more about what you can give us. We believe that it is a two way relationship and we want to thank our team and spend time getting to know them more. Since we opened in May 2013, we have held a number of volunteer evenings and dinners, an annual general meeting, shared news through our volunteer newsletter, training events and coffee mornings, so that the team can spend time getting to know one another and make new friendships. We were delighted to have our teams work acknowledged in the Dorset Volunteer Awards 2014, picking up awards in the Individual Volunteer, Young Volunteer and Volunteer Team categories.

But we are still on the lookout for more volunteers to help to grow our team, particularly on a Friday night and Saturday morning. We can give you a wide range of training from serving our customers, using the coffee machines, helping out in the kitchen and other activities that happen in the space. All we ask of you, is for a regular commitment to helping out (even just a couple of times a month).

If you would like to know more about the volunteering opportunities at Not Just Sundaes, why not pop into the café and speak to Felicity (our café manager) for a no obligation chat? You've got nothing to lose, but maybe a whole lot to gain!

For information about other opportunities and events that are happening in the space, take a look at our website (www.notjustsundaes.com), our Facebook page (Not just sundaes Community Café), or pop in and see us in South Street, Wareham (opposite the library).

aster Saturday (4th April 2015) will see the inaugural Dorset Food and Venison Festival taking place at Post Green in the village of Lytchett Minster, Poole.

Dorset watchers will be well aware of the marvellous range of food produce originating in the county, and may well know of the exciting food events which brighten our summers, but why a Venison Festival?

Well, deer in the landscape are delightful creatures and valuable parts of our ecosystem, but it turns out that it is possible to have too much of a good thing, and deer numbers in Purbeck have got so big that they are damaging farming and woodlands as well as the wild areas and cause traffic accidents. This means that the deer numbers have to be managed, and that means that venison will be produced.

So it's local, healthy, (venison is very low in fat), and tastes good. We thought that this was worth celebrating, and on 4th April we will be giving people the opportunity to discover how good it is and how well it goes with our other excellent Dorset foodstuffs.

Local chefs will be providing food demonstrations throughout the day including Mark Harstone from La Fosse Restaurant as well as The Salt Pig. Dorset Charcuterie will also be showing off their skills.

The event is being supported by Dorset Food & Drink, Wild Purbeck, ANOB and NFU.

There will be information about deer, other wildlife and the local ecology, live music during the event, Morris Dancing to entertain, horse-drawn carriage rides and children's activities including stag racing plus many, many local traders selling their hot and cold food produce and of course

All this in a charming rural setting at Post Green, Lytchett Minster.

The event starts at 10am, FREE parking, Adults Entry £2.50 -Under 12 are FREE.

Trust Shocked At Lack Of Protection For Studland Bay

orset Wildlife Trust (DWT) is shocked and bitterly disappointed that Studland Bay has not been included in the latest MCZ (Marine Conservation Zone) public consultations.

Twenty-three other sites around England are being considered, as well as additional conservation features for the Chesil Beach and Stennis Ledges MCZ and the South Dorset MCZ, which were designated after the last public consultations.

DWT's Marine Awareness Officer, Julie Hatcher said, "Currently there is still no protection in place for Studland Bay, despite clear ecological evidence in support of the designation, and Natural England identifying it as a site at high risk of damage.

During a survey carried out in 2013, 88% of boaters questioned expressed support for protection for Studland Bay."

Studland Bay is home to a large seagrass meadow, which is a priority conservation habitat and important for both UK seahorse species – the spiny seahorse and the short snouted seahorse. It also provides a nursery area for a range of commercial fish species such as bream, plaice, sole, pollack and bass, and for the endangered undulate ray.

Julie adds: "DWT believes that management measures are available that will allow recreational boaters to carry on visiting the bay and strengthen the local economy. Defra has not taken into account that there are potential economic benefits of designating the site and restoring it to its full health."

DWT is looking for as much support as possible to get Studland Bay considered in the next set of public consultations.

To send an email to Defra asking them to consider this important site for protection, visit http://www.wildlifetrusts.org/saveMCZs.

Harvey's Law PASSED!

n our February edition, we printed an article on dog theft. Part of the article encouraged you to go online and sign the petition for 'Harvey's Law', to ensure owners are informed by the Highways Agency if pets are sadly found dead on the road. Thankfully, Harvey's Law was passed in March after a government u-turn.

Harvey (pictured left) was a three-year-old miniature poodle, who went missing (with a tagged collar and microchip) on the evening of 23rd November 2013. His owners started a massive search. Facebook attracted over 6000 followers to help search (Harvey's Army), thousands of leaflets were printed and distributed, and over £8000 was spent over the following weeks and months in a desperate attempt to find Harvey.

It was all completely in vain. In February 2014, a Highways Agency Patrol Officer got in touch via Facebook to say that a poodle-type dog had been hit on the M62 shortly after Harvey had gone missing. His body was collected and cremated by HA staff in December 2013.

Despite HA procedures stating that a description of the dog should be recorded and this should be passed to the local police and dog wardens, this did not happen, and the owners were continually told by HA and the dog warden that there were no reports of a dog being hit or picked up around that time. Harvey's body was also obviously not scanned at the time of collection by the HA, despite HA vehicles being equipped with scanners, with set procedures to follow when collecting the bodies of domestic pets from the highway.

Since the petition gained the required number of signatures, the government has now decided to scrap plans to end the requirement to scan domestic pets when found on the highway, and owners should be informed if their pet is found on a public highway.

Loss Of Local Wildlife Sites Causes Concern

new report about Local Wildlife Sites around the UK has revealed that the habitat quality of 118 (9%) of Dorset's Local Wildlife Sites have deteriorated significantly in the last five years.

Dorset Environmental Records Centre (DERC) records also show that in the last 10 years, 34 Local Wildlife Sites (called Sites of Nature Conservation Interest (SNCI's) in Dorset) have been wholly or partially destroyed.

Dorset Wildlife Trust (DWT) contributed to the report, called 'Secret Spaces', which has been published by The Wildlife Trusts, and describes a variety of reasons why wildlife sites are lost or damaged, including development, re-planting, ploughing and use of fertilisers.

Many sites, such as heathland and unimproved grassland, whilst not deliberately damaged, become smothered in scrub and bracken, which contributes to degradation of the wildlife habitat, if left unmanaged.

Local Wildlife Sites are vital wildlife hotspots and provide important 'stepping stones' for wildlife between protected sites like SSSI's (Sites of Special Scientific Interest).

The Wildlife Trusts both locally and nationally will be urging local authorities and developers to fully recognise the importance of these sites in the planning process, and the Government to prioritise land management funding and advisory schemes to help landowners manage these important sites for the benefit of wildlife.

If you want to find out more about how to care for a local wildlife space in Dorset, contact DWT's Sharron Abbott on 01305 264620.

COUNTRY PARK & NATIONAL NATURE RESERVE

Spring Wildlife

After a winter at sea, Guillemots are back on the cliffs, renewing their bonds as they prepare to breed and forming straggling lines on the sea.

The meadows are starting to come back to life, with Cowslips filling them with colour, with Early Spider, Early Purple and Green-winged Orchids also in bloom.

Migrant birds, like Wheatears and Yellow Wagtails, may be seen feeding on the ground while scrub may conceal a Redstart or a singing Nightingale.

Overhead the glorious song of the Skylark contrasts with the simple piping of the Meadow Pipit. Both are ground-nesting and particularly at risk from disturbance, so please keep to the waymarked paths.

'40 Years, Man and Boy': The Artwork of Peter Rush

Do come along and see our current exhibition, featuring a look back at the varied career of 'Jackanory' artist Peter Rush, who has created an astonishing range of witty, beautiful and unique work.

The exhibition will be open daily until the 20th April and entry is free. For more information, visit www.peterrushart.co.uk.

Further Afield To A Field Of Boulders

by John Garner

p until the last few months a field of boulders would have registered as only a mild distraction to a pleasant meander through the countryside at best. It has now most definitely upped its status and has become a playground of epic proportions suggesting, as it does, an area of boulder problems that need to be solved.

Bouldering makes you concentrate on the little things. I have already spent upwards of five hours on a single problem in the climbing gym just attempting to make a sequence of interconnected moves that result in the success of completing a problem. With mixed results. When I started at theclimbingproject.co.uk I was merely curious to see what this sport had to offer. It was a stop off on the way home that looked like fun and was a decent means of keeping fit. It's now become a minor obsession, probably in a good way, that has inevitably led to me trying out bouldering in the real outdoor world where boulders exist without the reassuring presence of crash mats and an excellent café upstairs.

When you go bouldering outdoors you need to bring your own café and your own bouldering mat for that matter. Well, you do if you want a drink and to not to end up in traction. You decide which you think is more important.

To Portland and an area known as 'the cuttings', the home of bouldering in this part of the country. Limestone blobs of stone scattered about with the sole purpose of providing fun for people like myself. Or rather not like myself. That is people who know how to find a way up, over and around a lump of rock. The first thing to come to terms with is the reality of the whole thing. The climbing gym is fantastic and I think I'm going to feel the same about bouldering outdoors. But even a novice like me can see it's very different. I intend to do both.

Portland stone is a precious thing. It has been used to help construct such monumental structures as the United Nations building in New York and our own St Paul's cathedral. It is limestone. This is all I know about Portland stone other than it is great to scramble over.

I imagine there are very many types of rock that are great to scramble over. My own grandfather used to head off into the Lake District back in the day and spend happy weekends scrambling over its crags with nothing more than a dodgy old rope lashing him and a mate together and it heartens me that I am now doing the same sort of thing albeit on a miniature scale. And without the dodgy old rope. In fact I've not made a decision about climbing with ropes yet, but if I decide to go ahead I'll be wanting the ropes that are, as far as possible, at the other end of the dodgy rope spectrum. I want indestructible, totally trustable ropes. I'm going to buy my ropes from the totally trustable and indestructible rope shop.

My Grandfather was a geezer! He was a real outdoors man and made the most of the free resources available to him here and all over Europe. Definitely a get out there and do it sort of chap when transport made it quite difficult to get out there and do it. I like to think some of those genes are in me as well.

A beautiful, sunny, February day messing about on rocks. Bloody brilliant it was. The views out to sea were great and the journey in and out of Portland takes you past the (I still find it an astonishing phenomenon) frankly amazing and bizarre Chesil beach.

Chesil is an old English word for gravel and gravel is what it is. An eighteen mile bank of gravel with a lagoon on the inside sandwiched between it and the rest of the mainland all the way to West Bay. And, get this - the pebbles are graded in terms of size. The biggest are at the Portland end at Chiswell and they get progressively smaller as you head west until they become very small indeed. How amazing is that? Now no one can see the pebbles organising themselves so they presumably shuffle around under cover of darkness as rarely is a pebble in the wrong place, which is also quite an amazing thing if clearly not true. Typically Chesil stands about I I metres above sea level for its length.

The rock we climbed had an incredible amount of friction. This was good for your climbing as it meant your climbing shoes clung to what seemed like impossibly small imperfections in the rock. It was bad for climbing in that it removed lots of skin from the tips of my fingers and at one point part of my shin. That said it was a brilliant experience and one I hope to repeat on as regular a basis as I can get away with over the next few months.

From sand to gravel to pebbles to boulders. There were also people climbing the cliffs. Underrated is Portland and whilst I realise it's not in the domain of the Purbeck Gazette distribution zone, it's good to go explore once in a while.

Primate Care Staff at Monkey World – Ape Rescue Centre in Dorset have welcomed a second baby Sumatran orang-utan (Pongo abelii) to the park – the second in the last two months. Six-week-old baby girl, Rieke, arrived recently from Berlin Zoo and was introduced to her new adopted brother, five-month-old Bulu Mata, who came from Budapest Zoo in December after his mother sadly died unexpectedly.

Rieke, a tiny baby girl, was born at Zoo Berlin in Germany on 12 January 2015. Her mother, Djasinga (aged 11), rejected her at birth and so the team of zookeepers had to intervene to care for the critically endangered infant. Having gained over 800g since birth, she was strong enough to make the big move to the orang-utan crèche in Monkey World, where specialist Primate Care Staff can take over her care.

Monkey World is home to the European crèche for orphaned orang-utans and, as such, provides sanctuary for any infants or youngsters that are not cared for by their mothers. The specially designed nursery building has a gymnasium-sized playroom fitted out with climbing frames, hammocks, and ropes to encourage natural, arboreal orang-utan behaviour. Most importantly there are 6 other orang-utans living there that include orphans from UK, Spain, Taiwan, Hungary and South Africa.

Rieke will be introduced to her new adopted family of orang-utans at Monkey World over the coming months and it is possible that adult female orang-utan, Hsiao-quai, will not only adopt the new arrival, but will also feed her. She is a wonderful mother, who has already raised two sons of her own and is currently breast-feeding another adopted three-year-old female, Awan. The team at Monkey World are hopeful that, given some time, Hsiao-quai may take on Rieke as well. Regardless, the two infants will start meeting some of the other Orang-utan Creche residents that are younger and very gentle.

Until then, Primate Care Staff will feed and care for both Rieke and Bulu Mata around the clock, taking them both home each evening to their very own nursery at the park. Like human babies, orang-utans are entirely dependant upon their mothers for survival. They have the longest "childhood" of all the great apes, with infants staying with their mothers for up to seven years. During this time the young learn all the skills they need to survive in the wild and to get on with others of their own kind.

For this reason, it is critical that the babies are able to live and grow up with other orang-utans, and so Rieke and Bulu Mata are in the best place at Monkey World.

Monkey World's Director, Dr Alison Cronin, said "It is an amazing international effort to provide two orphan orang-utans with the very best opportunity to grow up with others of their own kind. Zoo Berlin and Budapest Zoos have done a wonderful job in caring for these very vulnerable infants and we are pleased to be able to offer specialist care and facilities throughout the rest of their childhood."

HOW YOU CAN HELP: Readers can help us with the following:

Infant supplies of milk, nappies and baby oil – specific items needed for Rieke and Bulu Mata are listed at the Monkey World Wish List on Amazon. com at: http://www.amazon.co.uk/gp/registry/wishlist/?ie=UTF8&cid=AI 3VVEKL02T33I

pril is the month when gardens come alive with the greatest variety of flowering trees and shrubs. We are particularly lucky in the UK to have an enormous assortment of plants to enjoy, thanks to plant breeders and nurserymen.

A lot of garden plants are improved forms of wild plants that have been selected and cross-bred to enhance a certain feature such as flower size and colour, length of flowering, height etc.

Most are either collected from the wild or bred from plants collected from the wild. We really need to thank the Plant Hunters of yesteryear who travelled to areas of the world that were often unexplored, risking starvation, disease, injury and violence from animals and unfriendly natives to bring us back new species.

What motivated them was not personal gain – very few became rich – or even fame. Their names, commemorated in the plants they bequeathed to us, are only really familiar to keen gardeners. Their driving force was a passion for their subject. Brave and intrepid men like Reginald Farrer, E H Wilson, Sir Joseph Hooker, David Douglas and George Forrest may not be household names but nearly every garden contains plants that they were responsible for introducing to the UK.

Plant Hunters at Holme

Here at Holme, we may not have to battle through thick jungle, climb high mountain passes, avoid cannibals or fight off Malaria like the plant hunters of old... nonetheless the Holme plant team are just as passionate about bringing you the best garden plants from Dorset, England and as far afield as Holland, Germany and Italy.

Over the past few weeks we have been scouring Britain and Europe to assemble an amazing array of plants which is now on show at Holme.

All our expertise and knowledge is available to you so why not make use of it this spring and visit the vast selection of plants at Holme?

Purbeck DJ Wins Scholarship Award

ocal mobile DJ, Iggy Davis of Corfe Castle (trading as Iggy Events DJ - pictured below), has won a prestigious Scholarship Award from the National Association of Disc Jockeys (NADJ).

NADJ ran a nationwide search to find a DJ who they thought would make the most out of a package of training and educational opportunities from the leading experts in the industry on all aspects of being a mobile DJ.

The NADJ Chairman, Alan Marshall, said that he was "ecstatic at the calibre of entries. Many congratulations to Iggy from our team of volunteers at the National Association of Disc Jockeys! We know from the glowing report on your application that you are sure to use all the different parts of the programme to the full potential of your performances and your DJ business."

The judges (Mark Walsh, from BPM and Eddie Short, from Pro Mobile magazine) outlined their reasons for Iggy ticking all of their boxes: "Iggy stood out as a recent convert to full-time mobile DJ'ing.

"He has used 'New Enterprise' grants to help build his business and has also invested in books, DVDs and training to help build his business."

"He cites the NADJ as helping raise his personal standards. His outlook is 100% positive and his application really hooked both Eddie and I with his determination to make his business work."

"He seems to be in control of all aspects of his business."

One of the highlights of the package is the chance to attend the Pro Mobile Conference. The two-day conference is for anyone who wants to take a proactive approach to developing their DJ and business skills. Each of the main speakers hosting educational content at the conference has a different specific area of expertise, from creating fun and entertaining wedding receptions, to sharing important lessons learnt from a lifetime of working in the industry.

Iggy will also receive VIP tickets to the 3-day BPM show at the NEC in Birmingham: a mini-city of interactive displays from over 100 exhibiting companies, educational sessions, chilled-out networking areas, and incredible live performances from world class DJs.

As well as these amazing experiences, Iggy will gain a recognised qualification from the London College Of Music: DJ Dynamics (Level I). In this course Iggy will learn about the techniques and processors that underpin DJ mixing. He will also receive regular ongoing one-to-one training with his own DJ mentor, Derek Pengelly, mobile DJ & MC of over thirty years experience and author of Wedding Day Secrets.

Iggy said, "I'm over the moon about being chosen for the scholarship! At every event I do, as well as bringing professional quality equipment and playing the right music, I try and think of ways I can add something extra to improve the party for the host and the guests; with this training I'll be able to do an even better job!"

Well done Iggy from all of us at the Gazette!

Donato Forte - A Gift Of Creation

Renowned Swanage-based artist and choreographer, David (Donato) Forte, sadly died on December 13th 2014, aged 90. Donato was son of Alfonso Forte and Adeline Mezza, and was brother to Giulio Forte and the late Amedo, Gerry and Ettore Forte. Purbeck artist and sculpturist, Carlotta Barrow, recounts her memories of Donato, below....

onato burst into my life in my late teens. I was home from ballet school and my mother gave a birthday party, at which there was a treasure hunt for which she had written amazing rhyming clues. Donato claimed to have a headache (I think it was because he didn't want to scrabble over the rocks at Peveril Point with all of us teenagers!). As he was my treasure hunt partner I took him to rest in the sitting room, but he was soon up leaping around to loud ballet music, with no sign of the headache! He invited my mother and I to supper in the Forte family home above the shop on Shore road — he was a very good host and cook.

We danced together in a charity concert at the old Mowlem Theatre, which housed the library in front and featured a huge ammonite in the fireplace. Donato choreographed Tchaikovsky's 'Caprice Italien' and at the curtain call I received a huge bouquet of flowers.

He opened a ground-floor espresso coffee bar on Station Road, with the first Gaggia expresso machine to reach Swanage. It blew up one day and he was found hiding behind the fridge. His artistic style flourished on the floor above, where he transformed the front room into the 'Florentine Tea Room' decorated accordingly, and featuring a gilt cake trolley highly embellished with ostrich feathers and ribbons. The room behind was his art gallery; my aunt had an exhibition of her Nigerian portraits there, and in true Donato style there were roped gilt stands and a printed programme with a golden tassel.

We had a beautiful blonde French girl, Danielle, staying with us at the time. She was soon working in the cafe and I am sure attracted many customers.

Our paths crossed again in London when I was dancing. I was staying at the Theatre Girl's Club in Greek Street, Soho. Donato was living in style (for free) at one of his cousin's hotels, the Waldorf Astoria in the Aldwych. He complained that toothpaste was not provided.

He had met Margot Fonteyn through his friend Peter Wright, and she came to see some of his choreography, with a view to him working on a ballet. He asked me to dance the pas-de-deux with Tom Slevin, a Canadian dancer he knew. This was very exciting and as we had no money we rehearsed where we could, including the stage at the Winter Garden Theatre, Drury Lane where I was dancing in Alice in Wonderland.

We used the stage between the matinee and evening performance but Frankie Howard (who was playing the Mad Hatter) complained of the noise as he was trying to rest. So we moved on to The Talk of the Town, a theatre restaurant owned by another cousin. Whilst Tom and I were dancing on the stage, the press arrived and thought we were the principal dancers. Donato's cousin treated us to a meal and show there, but being penniless we had no money for a tip.

The piece was coming together really well and I was excited about dancing for Margot Fonteyn, but unfortunately Donato met another girl who had a rich father who could fund him. So I was dropped and she danced with Tom at the Café Royale (owned by another cousin) in Regent Street. Fonteyn did come to see the piece but I never heard more about Donato choreographing for her.

Tom Slevin became a friend and we used to go to classes together until he left for New York. At this time I was interested in American freestyle jazz dance after doing classes with Gary Cockrell, who came over to London with West Side Story. I decided to go to New York to train with Gary's teacher Mat Maddox. Tom by this time was married and living in Manhattan, and he kindly sponsored me and arranged for me to stay with a friend (who worked with him for NET Television).

Years later, living in Covent Garden, I was invited to a private view of Donato's costume designs in the crush bar of the Royal Opera House. He was an excellent artist and painted what he called his 'floating ladies', male and female dancers in the most amazing costumes he designed. It was a champagne reception with many celebrities.

I had to give up dancing after a knee injury and started painting and creating kinetic art, which led to a life in film and television as art director and set designer. I had my daughter Anna in 1981 and returned to Swanage for the first six months of her life. Here I re-connected with Donato and his friend Richard, who worked at the estate agents, Miles & Son. There was a group of us, Donato, Richard, Al Tartar (an American artist) and his wife Sylvia and myself who used to take turns to host dinner parties. Anna as a baby was at the stage she could come in a carrycot and sleep in a bedroom.

Donato, true to his style, had completely transformed a small house in Argyle Road into an Italianate boudoir! In the dining room, elaborate screens, huge gilt picture frames, small gilt tables with marble tops, gilt candle sconces and an elegant table and chairs with candelabra completed the scene. Al and Sylvia lived in the Old Water Works, filled with his paintings. They were very good cooks. I remember my turn, everything was set, meal in the oven, table laid, we were standing in front of a blazing fire raising our glasses for a toast when all the lights went out. Luckily I had enough coins to hand to feed the meter.

It was at this time the idea for The Balletomanes Cook Book was born, with famous dancers giving their favourite recipes, together with a photograph and short biography. I interviewed Antoinette Sibley and my dancer friend Anitra Shaw. Rosy Barlow designed the cover but when I approached publishers, the Opera Lover's Cook book had just come out so it was rejected.

I particularly remember one New Year's Eve in Swanage, with the roads closed and everyone in fancy dress. Chris, my husband, as an Arab, Anna (then eight) in one of my costumes and myself dressed as a principal boy, Aladdin! There were a party of ducks quacking down the road with their yellow feet, a family as snowmen, Fiona in Hawaiian grass skirt and lei and many more. Then out of the shadows appeared Donato in flesh-coloured body suit and long blonde wig as Lady Godiva, with Richard as Peeping Tom.

Time passed and I was working as Set Decorator on Agatha Christie's Poirot. We were filming in Eastbourne and the production office phoned me to say there was a gentleman who wanted to see me. It was Donato! He was then living in St Leonards and running an antique shop with a friend. We took him for a meal and he was his old hilarious self, telling jokes; one was quite outrageous about the Catholic church, when we noticed the table behind consisted of four priests. However, they were in gales of laughter!

Donato could certainly be the life and soul of a party and was brilliant at telling stories and laughing at himself. I feel his light is still sparkling and he will never be forgotten.

Oasis? Here? No! IT'S OASISH!

n Saturday 21st February, we headed down to the Mowlem Theatre in Swanage in the hope of being entertained by Europe's leading Oasis tribute act, Oasish (great name!).

Oasish were supported by Purbeck's very own 'Social Affair', led by Frankie Rudd, who organised the night.

Tribute acts used to be pretty hit and miss to be honest, but as Mr Kyps in Bournemouth are finding, times have changed and many tribute acts these days are almost as good as the original act.

The tickets were a sell-out, with a packed theatre of Oasis (and Rudd) fans, ready to let their hair down.

Social Affair came on-stage accompanied by some impressive purple smoke and a worthy light show to a rapturous local welcome. Not having seen them perform for quite a while, I was pleasantly surprised by the relaxed, polished, entertaining performance.

Frankie, as front man, has really grown into an accomplished performer, backed by a band which hangs together extremely well, offering a tight performance throughout. There's nothing quite like seeing a band who really enjoy performing together; the atmosphere draws the audience in, and smiling becomes the order of the day - with the band leading the way.

Following Social Affair were Oasish - billed as Europe's top Oasis tribute act. Headed-up by Paul as Liam, with Phil as Noel (surnames seem to a a state secret), this Reading-based tribute act exploded onto stage just like - well, Oasis, actually.

Offering-up the full repetoire of Oasis hits, Oasish were pretty bloody splendid, to be honest, and highly entertaining. A huge amount of work has obviously gone into their act, with everything perfected to mimic the real thing. In fact, it would be interesting to see them on stage performing next to the real Liam and Noel as you'd be hard pushed to choose a winner.

Only slight downside to the night was the Mowlem's continued inability to remove the front couple of rows of seats in order to allow people room to dance - other small theatres manage it easily, it is physically possible (I checked), so come on - let's at least give the audience the chance to fully enjoy musical acts when they're here - dancing is not dangerous, and nor are people having fun - lose the fear and let's bring the Mowlem's facilities up to the modern day a little when needed - it won't even cost a penny!

Nico Johnson - thanks to Social Affair for the review tickets!

Literary expert and our in-house Book Reviewer, David Bishop, writes....

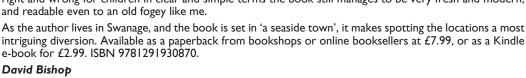

Freewheelers Save The World by Eric Johns

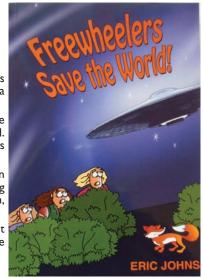

ric Johns is a prolific local author with a wealth of titles in various genres, and over twenty children's books to his credit. Readers of this column might remember I reviewed the excellent Prisoners of a Shadow World last August.

This book is the second in the popular Freewheelers series for children featuring Gina, Mandy and Claire the founder members of the very exclusive Freewheelers club, dedicated to good deeds and saving the world. In this instance they are saving the world from 'aliens' and, of course, nobody - especially grown-ups - takes them very seriously.

At the end we find this is a clever play on words and that the 'aliens' the girls do succeed in their own bumbling way in having arrested are of the 'illegal' variety. Whilst maintaining the fine tradition of defining right and wrong for children in clear and simple terms the book still manages to be very fresh and modern, intriguing diversion. Available as a paperback from bookshops or online booksellers at £7.99, or as a Kindle

e are in an age of information and technology:

You have back pain worse than in the past and this was initially so severe that you could not straighten. Usually you are okay after a week but this has hung around in your back well over a month and this time you are worried.

X-rays show some wear and tear - maybe a narrow area suggesting that the disc has worn. You stop your hobbies, look after your back, keeping it straight as you are advised and still there is pain. MRI scan shows narrowing and wear - but they say it is fine - nothing to worry about.

You search the internet -What are they not telling me? Why isn't there anything they can do? It is now awful sitting- car journeys are a nightmare, walking uphill is dreadful. You are constantly aware of you back and you are not sure about those physiotherapy exercises because they hurt.

Surprisingly it has been found that many of us who haven't got pain actually have pretty dreadful X-rays and scans. Your back probably looked just the same on scans well before you had pain.

Anxiety can cause the area of your brain which "feels" your back to become LARGER and more SENSITIVE. It senses danger, tenses the back muscles and compresses the nerves further. This is a simplified explanation of "central sensitisation" and to change it you have to take charge and BELIEVE that there is nothing DREADFUL wrong with you.

To reverse this sensitisation often needs your belief, a graduated exercise programme to help you help yourself and some hands on treatment. At Swanage Therapy Centre we understand these conditions and assess and treat all individually. We offer treatments which may involve massage, acupuncture, mobilisation or manipulation and a customised exercise and self- care programme.

Don't let your pain become chronic.

NOVASURE AND MYOSURE GYNAECOLOGICAL PROCEDURES

thought that you would be interested to know that the Friends of Swanage Hospital have very generously supported the Day Surgery Unit by investing in the future of our gynaecology service. Paula Beesley, Sister at Swanage Day Surgery Unit, explains:

"We asked the Friends for new equipment that not only helps us to keep up with the latest surgical advances but is also recommended by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE). This means that we can offer our local ladies procedures that remove small uterine polyps (Myosure technique) and help to control menstrual problems (Novasure technique). The Novasure procedure is currently undertaken using a quick general anaesthetic and the Myosure under local anaesthetic. This reduces hospital stay and ensures a quick return to normal daily activities.

We acquired the equipment at the end of last year and, after training, we undertook our first Myosure procedure in January. During February we continued by performing two Novasure procedures. Our consultant gynaecologist, Mr Tyrone Carpenter, has been very supportive in helping us to deliver this service at Swanage.

With the addition of this equipment we are able to offer greater choice and add to the existing services that we provide.

We appreciate the continued commitment of the Friends in helping to make Swanage Hospital the best it can be.'

The Friends is a group of people who give their time, energy and wisdom to support the work of the hospital in Swanage.

We also have a similar group that supports Wareham Hospital. I regularly meet up with both organisations to keep them updated on hospital projects and to discuss how we can work together to benefit our patients and staff.

If you would like information on how to join our Friends please contact the main reception at either hospital.

Until next time, take care!

Donate Your Brain!

harity calls for more people to consider brain donation The UK's first dedicated brain and tissue bank for epilepsy is calling for more people to consider joining the brain donation register.

The charity Epilepsy Society, founders of the Epilepsy Society Brain and Tissue Bank, are hoping to raise awareness of the value of brain tissue for epilepsy research. More than half a million people in the UK have epilepsy and a third have seizures that cannot be controlled with anti-epileptic drugs.

There are around 1,000 epilepsy-related deaths each year. Professor Sanjay Sisodiya, who leads the genetics research at Epilepsy Society, said: "Other conditions such as Alzheimer's and Parkinson's have large tissue banks dedicated to research which have proved extremely valuable. Brain Awareness Week marks the first anniversary of the Epilepsy Society Brain and Tissue Bank.

"We have already had a good response from people wanting to join the brain donation register - but the more we can raise awareness, the faster we may develop new treatments and cures. You do not need to have epilepsy to join the register - we need to be able to compare and contrast the brains from people who had epilepsy with brains from people who did not.'

The facility, at the Institute of Neurology in London, is overseen by consultant neuropathologist Dr Maria Thom.

Dr Thom said: "We've also been promoting awareness of the facility with pathologists and coroners. In many instances valuable brain tissue is not collected at the time of death because there is a lack of information regarding a route for donation."

"We have had considerable interest from coroners and pathologists in our first year as well as families.

In addition our tissue resource is being used by many research groups in the UK and beyond and in projects as varied as understanding the electrical activity of neurones in epilepsy to alterations in the brain that could be related to sudden death.'

Wrinkles Begone! We Try Dermal Fillers

Editor Nico Johnson being treated by Dr Claudia Morley at The Bay, Swanage.

've held an interest in modern-day cosmetic surgery ever since I stood next to rock legend, Liam Gallagher, and almost immediately my excitement at meeting him melted away, replaced by a fascination of his skin - baby-smooth and wrinkle-free, but not frozen. I just couldn't stop staring - he looked amazing. In the past two years, a huge number of people from all walks of life are opting for modern cosmetic procedures - it is becoming the 'norm', with everyone taking-up the celeb culture of holding back the years.

Eighteen months ago, I was relatively wrinkle-free and laughed in the face of ageing, holding on to the teenage belief that it 'would never happen to me'. I turned forty recently, and much as I hate to admit it, things have changed - namely a few deepening furrows on my face and a grudging acceptance that I am not, after all, immune to slackening facial muscles and the rich tapestry life will eventually carve on one's face from middle age onwards.

So, when Dr Claudia Morley, a private GP and non-surgical cosmetic expert, popped in to the Gazette Towers to discuss advertising, we ended up having a conversation about how, despite the fact 'everyone's doing it', people still don't talk openly with friends and family about what procedures they've had done. This means it is difficult for clients to discuss their experiences, recommend safe, qualified practitioners, compare prices and so on, keeping this now-accepted area of the beauty industry with a slightly mysterious edge to it - which can be off-putting to newcomers.

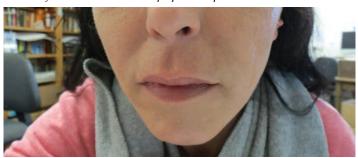

Dr Morley and I made a deal; she'd rid me of two new persistent companions - deep lines either side of my mouth, and I in turn would tell our readers openly and honestly exactly how it felt, and show you how I looked before and after the treatment.

The day of the appointment came and we sat and chatted about my medical history, what concerns I had about my skin, and how the procedure would go. During the consultation, I pointed out that my top lip was also suffering (being a smoker), so that was added to the list. Anaesthetic cream was applied to sensitive areas to lessen any pain from the needles being inserted.

I had a natural filler injected into the fine lies around my top lip, and yes, I did feel it - it's a sensitive area. However, although a couple of the injections were a little uncomfortable, they could not be classed as painful. The filler itself also has anaesthetic in it, which obviously numbs the area even more as the doctor works along the lip. A thin line of filler was injected along the top of my lip, smoothing it out. Finally, the lines either side of my mouth were injected with filler. I felt a couple of the injections, but it was pretty much pain-free. Then we were finished.

I was told that there may be some slight bruising (as you'd expect). Immediately after having the injections, there were a few small holes visible on my upper lip, and there was some slight redness and swelling, again, as you'd expect.

Over the following week as the minor swelling around my top lip subsided, I had several long conversations with people who know me well (including family), and no one mentioned anything other than I was 'looking much better' (having been ill recently).

The filler I had injected into my nasolabial lines (either side of the nose/mouth) and my top lip (vertical lines) was a dermal filler - tiny injections of a naturally-occurring protein found in skin, with hyaluronic acid (which naturally diminishes with age), giving the skin its volume and fullness. It literally smoothes lines out of targeted areas.

Dermal fillers can be used on target areas such as smoker's lip lines, smile lines around mouth and nose, for lip enhancements and the removal of stubborn frown lines. The charge levied generally equates to how much product (in syringes) you require.

Older ladies (and men!) with more stubborn wrinkles around the mouth, chin and lips, (dependent on how deep the wrinkles are) may need an initial treatment with three syringes of dermal filler (£720) and then one syringe as a top-up (£240) every six months (thus becoming £40pmth).

Treatment examples with prices: Dermal filler (smokers' lines, smile lines, lip enhancements, stubborn frown lines): one syringe costs £240. The first treatment on my nasolabial lines involved two syringes (£480). My top-up after six months would involve one syringe (£240), making it an affordable £40 per month to continue looking fabulous!

The effects will last approximately six months, and then I will have the option to have a 'top-up', which will be significantly cheaper due to smaller amounts of filler being required. Am I happy with it? Yes, I really am. I'm surprised to admit that I am very likely to return in six months for my top-up!

NEXT MONTH - worry lines on the forehead and deep frown marks - will botox help? I find out!

Let The Scilly Season Begin!

fter a winter of hard training on rowing machines and on the water, as well as gym sessions, running and cycling, Swanage Sea Rowing Club is ready for the racing season.

The major event of the early rowing calendar is the World Pilot Gig Championships (I-3 May).

The Bank Holiday weekend sees around 140 pilot gigs and 2,000 rowers descend upon the idyllic Isles of Scilly for three days of fierce competition, camaraderie and celebration of gig rowing.

On this beautiful archipelago, twenty-eight miles off the coast of Cornwall, over this particular weekend, you will never see such a high concentration of lycra!

Our Swanage Gigs will be on the mile-long start line amongst 140 other competing crews. The sight of these beautiful wooden gigs, some over 100 years old, others brand new and all providing a wonderful spectrum of colour is truly awesome. And the noise of hundreds of oars bashing against their thole pins at the start of the races can be heard across the islands.

The first race takes place on the Friday evening with men's and ladies' Vets (40+) and Supervets (50+) races taking place. The two mile race runs from St Agnes to St Mary's Harbour. On Saturday, the ladies are first out to row the same two mile race, with the first men's race taking place in the afternoon.

There are then two shorter heat races (from Nut Rock near Tresco to St Mary's Harbour) for the ladies and the men in groups of twelve gigs, culminating in the finals on Sunday afternoon...and then the party commences.

This championship event, which has taken place for over twenty-five years, is a wonderful experience for rowers and non-rowers alike. A good flow of passenger boats follow the races and the shouting and cheering from supporters really does help rowers to keep going (often in very choppy seas!).

If you'd like to listen to the race reports over the May Day Bank Holiday – and to cheer for Swanage – please tune in to Radio Scilly.

Swanage Tennis

t has been a truly nail-biting end to a great season for Swanage's Mixed I. The strong squad have performed well throughout the winter season and have been in the mix for promotion throughout. Their meeting against Victoria Avenue was to prove a decisive one in their attempt to move up to Division 2.

Swanage fielded a really competent team, Jo Kiddell and Andy Moore playing as Swanage's first pairing and Deborah Miller and Mike Angell as their second. Victoria Avenue were always going to present a challenge and they certainly didn't disappoint.

Jo and Andy started with a very tough match against the Victoria Avenue first pair. The battle eventually went to a tie-break in which every point was hard earned. Despite every effort on Swanage's part – Victoria Avenue claimed this important match, 6:4, 3:6, 0:1.

Meanwhile on Court 2, Deborah and Mike had to produce some very good tennis to compete with their opponents. They started well, gaining the first set but the calibre of Victoria Avenue was fully realised in the second when they proceeded to dominate the match, eventually winning 6;3, 0:6, 0;1.

It was down to Swanage to win the other two rubbers to ensure their promotion to Division 2. Jo and Andy did just this winning 6:4, 6:1 but despite a valiant effort and excellent tennis from both sides, Deborah and Mike just lost out again in another match tie-break, losing 6:4,3:6, 0:1. Both sides had 39 games a piece and although not enough for Swanage to claim victory on the day, it was just enough in terms of games to claim second place in the league and promotion!

Swanage Bowlers

Indoor Bowls News.

n Thursday mornings the men play a series of matches against East Cliff Casuals with a cup awarded to the winners at the end of the season. The Isle of Purbeck club has sufficient wins to clinch the cup with 2 games still to play.

Matches have been completed in the Men's 60-plus League B and the Isle of Purbeck finished the season in 2nd place, only 4 points behind the winners Dolphin. In the only match they lost all season (against Dolphin), the score was 36-32, so just another 5 shots would have clinched promotion.

In the Ladies Indoor Bowling League Division 2, Isle of Purbeck currently lie in 4th place but with 2 games to play they are too far adrift to catch the leaders.

Club competitions have reached a critical stage with semi-finals being played. Finals take place in early April.

Outdoor Bowls News.

It's all systems go for Swanage Bowling Club's outdoor season which swings into action on 11th April with lunch at the club followed by a friendly mixed opening-day game between club members.

The previous day, Friday 10th April is the Presidents Coffee Morning which is open to both members and non-members and takes place at the pavilion in Beach Gardens from 10 a.m. to 12 midday, so do come along for a coffee and a natter and perhaps to buy something tasty from the cake stall or some reading material from the book stall.

The following week (18th April) the men play the annual friendly fixture at Pelhams, then competitive matches start in earnest with the first Bournemouth and District League match at Wimborne on 25th April and the first Dorset League match at home to West Moors two days later.

First match for the Ladies in the Dorset League is on 21st April against Greenhill at Weymouth.

To all our bowlers we wish you an enjoyable and successful season on the green and let's hope for a warm sunny summer.

Advance notice for prospective new bowlers. If you fancy trying your hand at bowls at Swanage's friendly bowls club you will be made most welcome.

In May the club will be holding a couple of 'Open Days' when new bowlers can come along and have a go on the green.

he Purbeck 16

n just three years The Purbeck Marathon has established itself as not just one of the most unique distance races in the UK but also one of the best. In each year it has been rated amongst the top three Marathons in the UK by a leading running magazine and the sixth best race of any distance in 2014.

New for 2015 is The Purbeck 16. It may be ten miles shorter than The Purbeck Marathon but it is still a challenging race. It takes in much of the same route as The Purbeck Marathon, the beautiful Purbeck countryside, the Victorian seaside resort of Swanage with its pier and award-winning beach, Durlston Country Park as well as great views of the Isle of Wight and the Isle of Portland, weather permitting. It is certainly not an easy option!

The Purbeck 16 also passes historic places such as Corfe Castle, the Square & Compass in Worth Matravers, Kingston – home to our favourite ice cream - crossing the Swanage Railway where runners might see a working steam locomotive. Like The Purbeck Marathon, runners finish on the seafront in Swanage with a chance to cool those tired legs in the English Channel.

The race will use Chip Timing to ensure runners receive an accurate time. The race will start 30 minutes after The Purbeck Marathon to ensure there are no runner jams at the start of the course. The route will be largely the same as The Purbeck Marathon except that it will cut across from Kingston to Corfe Castle.

The Purbeck Marathon and The Purbeck 16 are organised totally by volunteers. A committee works all year to develop and improve the event and many more volunteers are required on the day for tasks such as marshalling, baggage tent, first aid, etc. The Purbeck Marathon is always looking for people who wish to join us and be part of the wonderful and unique event. If you would like to become involved, please contact info@ thepurbeckmarathon.co.uk.

The organisers have announced that entries for The Purbeck 16 2015 on 20 September are already open with details available at www. thepurbeckmarathon.co.uk.

Swanage Football Club

have two youth teams who have just been crowned champions, firstly our U12 side have become champions for the second successive season (see photo).

This means that in two whole seasons they have lost just the two league games, one last season and one game this season at home to local rivals Wareham Rangers. Manager Dean Slavin along with Coach Bruce Jones have nothing but good words to say about their young team. "It's been a long season and every player has played his part."

"We have some talented players in our side but football is a team game and every boy has been exceptional this season. We are really looking forward to next season as we are progressing to II a side on full size pitches; at the moment we are playing 9 a side on intermediate pitches. We have every confidence in the boys and they are looking forward to next season already!"

The other youth team who have become champions are the U14s. (see photo) They boast an equally great achievement as they managed to go the whole season unbeaten in the league. This went right down to the wire. The U14s last game of the season was at home to Ringwood Town, a team they had only managed to draw with, so they knew it was to be a close game. Close being the operative word. With only seconds remaining on the clock and the young Swans losing 2:3 it looked like they were going to lose the unbeaten record, then up stepped Tommy Battrick to fire home from just outside the box. The 60+ crowd's cheers were said to be heard as far away as Station Rd.

So the game finished on the restart and the unbeaten run was intact. Manager Andy Dunster & assistant Geoff Willcocks have done an amazing job this season and were absolutely delighted with their team's efforts this season and praised every one of their players. Andy being a keen Arsenal supporter was delighted his young side have emulated the 'invincible 'Arsenal team of 2003-04.

When asked about the feat Andy said "With a number of games to go we had a feeling we could go the season unbeaten, but didn't want to put too much pressure on the team. It became obvious though they wanted this as much as we did and to do it in the way they did, with practically the last kick of the game in the final match of the season, was a fitting finish to an absolute fantastic season" From the youngsters to the Old ones.

The Swans Walking football team had their first competitive match a couple of weeks ago. They were invited away to play Ferndown Leisure Centre and although they lost the game quite heavily, they made some new friends and have invited them back to Day's Park for a rematch. Regular readers of this column will know that our First team has been going through a fairly sticky patch since the turn of the year. In saying that, the team has been very unlucky in the majority of games only losing by the odd goal in a number of the matches. The Dorset Premier League is a very tough league in as much as teams from the bottom half can very often beat the sides from the top half. This proved the case recently as we welcomed Hamworthy Recreation to Day's Park.

Ham Rec are serious title contenders, if they were to win their games in hand they would top the Division. Prior to this midweek game last week (early March) we had beaten another club in the lower half of the table, Cranborne 1:0 in a scrappy affair. Ham Rec came to us full of confidence maybe a little over confident and Alan Lay's side battled with the table topping side throughout, not giving them any time to play their normal game and eventually ran out worthy 2:0 winners. This victory will hopefully give the team the confidence and belief in themselves that they are as good as the best teams in the DPL and start to climb up the table.

Last month at Day's Park was Fight Night. This is where local lads (and ladies!) challenge each other in a professionally staged boxing match. This was in our hall and was expertly run by local man Callum Lovett. Tickets were sold out weeks prior to this event being staged. I'm sure this won't be the last time this popular event is staged at the Club. Another event we are hosting in the very near future is a roller Disco once again in the Hall. This is a local school's PTA raising important funds for the children attending their school.

This shows how the Football Club is at the centre of the community, staging all these different events. If you would like to have a party be it a birthday, wedding or any other occasion we would be only too pleased to stage it for you. You can contact us through the website www.swanagefc.com or on Twitter @Swanagefc or just phone our Club Sec. Mari Watson on 07794 116375 or myself on 07919277568.

The Purbeck Gazette - Proudly Supporting The Swans

wanage & Wareham continued their bid to become champions of the Southern Counties league and get back to where they belong in South West One next season. On the 7th February they met third placed Sherborne at Bestwall. Fly half Charlie Parish scored a try early on, and then landed a penalty goal, but Sherborne came back at Swans landing two penalty goals of their own. Swans no.8 Joe Desmond added to Swans score sheet. In the final minutes Sherborne managed a consolation try as Swans won by 41pts – 14pts.

The next game, was the crunch fixture of the season as Swans had to travel to Salisbury, who were second in the league, and who had already beaten Swans in the Dorset/Wilts Cup Final. Swans got off to a flying start as after just two minutes Charlie Rowberry went in for the opening try. Tragedy eventually took over for Swans, as Salisbury inflicted on Swans their first defeat in the league as Salisbury took the spoils, 25pts – 18pts.

Swans next match took them to Corsham, in Wiltshire, who were near the foot of the table. Swans put pressure on the hosts, and there was time for Charlie Rowberry to score two more tries for him to complete his hat trick before the end of the match. Corsham did manage a late consolation try giving Swans a 42pts – 5pts victory.

On the afternoon of the 5th March Swanage & Wareham hosted the UII tag rugby for all the local primary schools. Nine teams turned up, with close to 100 players, and they played a round robin event with every team competing against all the others.

The two top teams, St.Mary's Swanage, and Stoborough Primary school go on to play in the Dorset schools UTI competition in March, so good luck to them!
